Six Men, One Girl Sail Across Channel

Brass Bed to Calais

CALAIS, France (AP)—Six young men and a girl floated into Calais Monday aboard a brass bedstead after a trip from Ramsgate, England, that took almost eight hours.

The bedstead was equipped with empty oil drums for flotation, two small outboard motors as propulsion and a rudder for guidance.

The sea was calm, the weather cold. They left Ramsgate at 8:30 a.m. and arrived in Calais at 4:10 p.m. This was several hours later than expected. The passengers gave no reason for the delay.

All the bed riders wore raincoats of a type used by fishermen. They were equipped with life buoys and an escort boat from Ramsgate accompanied them.

After reaching Calais, the students from the Hatfield College of Technology in Hertfordshire again boarded the bed and set out on the return trip.

The only girl in the crew, Sue Sperring, 18, said: "We had a marvelous crossing. The sea was so smooth I even dropped off to sleep at one point. The bed was very comfortable."

France or Not Must Continue NATO—Allies

PARIS (UPI)—The United States and its North Atlantic allies have reached full agreement that NATO must be continued, without France if necessary, informed diplomatic sources said Monday.

Imbert Calls On Bosch For Duel

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the men who took part in the machine-gun assassination of Dominican Republic dictator Rafael Trujillo, has challenged ex-president Juan Bosch to a duel.

The challenge, in a half-page newspaper advertisement, tells Bosch to choose between "dialogue" and "the field of honor."

Bosch said he will have no comment. He is a leading candidate in the June presidential election.

The French delegation was absent as the permanent representatives of the 14 other North Atlantic Treaty Organization members met for three hours to confirm their united stand in the face of French President Charles de Gaulle's efforts to tear down the alliance.

De Gaulle, in ordering the expulsion of American and Canadian troops and bases and NATO military headquarters from France and the withdrawal of all French forces from NATO command, has triggered the gravest internal crisis ever to confront the alliance.

Diplomatic sources said "the 14" confirmed their earlier agreement that the de Gaulle crisis is a matter for joint concern and not for bilateral talks between individual members and the French.

Suharto Seeks Small Cabinet For Indonesia

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Indonesia's new military President Sukarno was bargaining Tuesday with President Suharto over the makeup of a new cabinet expected to be announced by the end of the week, sources in Jakarta said.

The sources, who could not be identified, said Suharto was pressing Sukarno to name a 24-man cabinet that could take over effective administration of the nation. Sukarno in the past has been in the habit of naming unwieldy 100-man cabinets that were incapable of proper administration.

Radio Jakarta said Sukarno met at Borobudur Palace Monday with a number of cabinet ministers and chiefs of the armed forces, but it added that Suharto did not attend "due an imposition."

The sources said it was still not clear whether former defense minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, who was deposed by Sukarno Feb. 21 in a cabinet reshuffle that led to riots, would be included.

The reports of the pending cabinet announcement followed disclosure Monday that the army acted quickly to seize power after uncovering a plot by Foreign Minister Subandrio and Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to eliminate "rightist elements" among military and government leaders.

No Change In Probe Terms

PEARSON KILLS TORY DEMANDS

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson rejected opposition demands for changes in the terms of reference of a judicial inquiry into the Gerda Munsinger case.

He appealed to the Commons to get back to normal business today after a fractious three-day debate on the case but it was not immediately clear whether this will happen.

Conservative House Leader Michael Starr shouted above a din of interjections and catcalls that Mr. Pearson has lost the confidence of Parliament and any "suggestion he has no merit whatever."

Mr. Starr accused the government of arrogance and of trying to impose its will on Parliament.

Mr. Pearson, speaking briefly just before the debate was adjourned at 10 p.m. EST, appealed to the opposition to accept the present terms of reference for the inquiry.

The terms were comprehensive and reasonable and were designed not to be provocative or offensive. No one was on trial. It was a broad inquiry to the roots of a case and he hoped the commissioner would be allowed to complete his inquiry as quickly as possible.

The prime minister suggested the Commons open a supply debate and abandon a series of questions of privilege that has obliterated almost all regular proceedings since last Thursday.

Dave Fulton, former Conservative justice minister, asked whether the government would accept his suggestions for changes in the terms of reference.

"No, no," Liberal MPs shouted.

Speaker Only Hope?

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Parliament is skidding along out of control and its last hope may be an 11th-hour salvage operation by Speaker Laclont Lamoureux. As Gerda Munsinger threatens to keep parliament in endless paralysis, Prime Minister Pearson pinned his hope on the speaker.

"He will have to decide," Mr. Pearson said last night.

At the same time, he equally rebuked the speaker for allowing a debate that has brought parliament to the brink of destruction and returned a sour pre-election mood to the capital.

The speaker, he said, had allowed an out-of-order debate for two-and-a-half days.

If the speaker moved to end the debate, a new crisis could develop.

But there is now total deadlock, for the fourth day, and no one can see the way out.

George Hees

Original Terms 'Good'

Mr. Pearson said the original terms are good and should be carried out.

Mr. Fulton earlier called for an all-party house committee to revise the terms of reference.

He said the terms passed by the cabinet Monday morning and tabled in the Commons before an unusual dinner adjournment are far too vague and do not refer directly to charges and innuendoes made last week by Justice Minister Cardin.

The Commons was back at the Munsinger matter after a 90-minute adjournment called to allow MPs to study the terms of reference of a special judicial inquiry into the affair announced earlier Monday by Prime Minister Pearson. Mr. Justice Wishart F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada is to head it.

Justice Minister Cardin has charged that Opposition Leader Diefenbaker when prime minister misdescribed the case which he has described as a security "risk." He has also accused, without naming them, "two or more" members of the Diefenbaker cabinet with being involved with Gerda Munsinger, 36, a blonde German beauty who lived in Canada from 1955 to 1961.

Mr. Cardin made the charges at a press conference Thursday after only mentioning the name "Munsinger" in the Commons March 4.

Mr. Pearson apparently appeared the angry Conservative, partially at least, by including in the royal commission's terms of reference for examination all the press conference statements by Mr. Cardin.

Degraded, Demeaned

The prime minister said Parliament had reached a "frighting situation" and that the atmosphere and attitudes which degraded it and demeaned democracy must be changed.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals had kept the Munsinger case "in cold storage in their hearts" to use against the Conservatives.

But at the end he said harsh words are part of Parliament and that "this Parliament is dead unless we resuscitate it."

"This institution must not fall. Without it, there is no freedom."

Many issues faced Canada.

Mr. Speaker, let's go to work," Mr. Diefenbaker concluded.

In contrast to the chaotic scenes of Thursday and Friday, there were hardly any interruptions during the speeches of Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker, former Conservative trade minister George Hees, former Conservative justice minister Dave Fulton, Privy Council President Favreau and Mr. Cardin.

MPs who tried to interrupt were hissed into silence by their party colleagues. All the galleries were jammed and hundreds waiting outside never got a seat.

The crowd was among the largest in parliamentary history.

Some Liberals joined in the Conservatives' applause when Mr. Hees said he recognizes newspaper photographs of Gerda Munsinger as a person he once knew but he still does not recall knowing her by that name.

Mr. Justice Spence

No Risk to Security

Mr. Hees said that at no time has his personal conduct jeopardized security and added:

"I defy the prime minister and the minister of justice to say that I ever did anything to jeopardize or affect the security of my country."

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton said no security risk occurred or was even alleged in the Munsinger affair.

Mr. Fulton said he was called to Mr. Favreau's office eight days before Mr. Cardin's mention of the name Munsinger in the Commons and told that the affair would be disclosed by the government if the Conservatives persisted in calling for a judicial inquiry into the Spencer spy case.

Conservative shouts of "shame, shame" greeted the statement.

Mr. Pearson on March 4 established a judicial inquiry into the case of George Victor Spence, thus reversing the stand taken by Mr. Cardin. He has also announced a royal commission into security procedures, meeting another demand of the Conservatives.

Mr. Favreau conceded he had mentioned the Munsinger case to Mr. Fulton but denied he had threatened to reveal details.

He said he told Mr. Fulton the case of postal clerk Spence—alleged to have supplied information to two Soviet embassy officials—is insignificant compared with the Munsinger affair and other secret files Mr. Fulton had seen while minister.

Mr. Favreau said his conversation with Mr. Fulton was secret under the oath of cabinet office but that the former minister had "betrayed this trust."

Mr. Fulton maintained the Liberals had followed a deliberate course in disclosing the Munsinger case.

"The government long ago decided to teach the Opposition a lesson no matter how disastrous the consequences," he said.

Mr. Cardin said he blurted out the name Munsinger March 4 under provocation—a reference to the opposition attack on him for opposing an inquiry into the Spencer case.

He said he hadn't even in-

'Quiet' Judge Serves

OTTAWA (CP)—After serving quietly on the bench for 15 years, Mr. Justice Wishart Fleet Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada was swept Monday into the eye of political hurricane Gerda.

The 62-year-old junior member of the highest court was asked by the government Monday morning to conduct a judicial inquiry into the sensational Gerda Munsinger affair and his appointment was announced by Prime Minister Pearson when the Commons met at 2:30 p.m. EST.

The terms give him "absolute discretion" to decide the time

Riots Spread To New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP)—Rock-throwing mobs clashed with police and burned cars in New Delhi's streets Monday as a violent outburst of language rioting swept parts of the Indian capital.

At nightfall, reinforced police squads firing tear gas imposed a curfew on the old sections of New Delhi and stood between Hindi-speaking Hindus and punjabi-speaking Sikhs.

MOSS OF 5,000

Although there has been rioting in neighboring Punjab state for three days, this was the first eruption of trouble in New Delhi. At times, mobs of 5,000 or more were on the rampage.

Trouble began with the government's decision last week to partition Punjab to give the Sikhs their own language state. The right-wing Hindu group, Jan Sangh, which demands Hindi be enforced as the national language, immediately launched agitation.

SIX KILLED

Violence spread throughout Punjab Monday, with police firing on mobs in several cities. At least six persons were reported killed.

In New Delhi, about 40 persons were injured and more than 200 arrested. The mob burned cars and other vehicles.

Hundreds of demonstrators turned on Sikh-owned shops as agents haggled over contracts with a variety of interests anxious to publish details of her alleged friendship with Canadian cabinet ministers.

MUNICH, West Germany (CP)—The Gerda Munsinger story continued to be acted out in the market-place Monday.

Agents Haggle Over Contracts

Gerda's Story Is Unfolding In Munich's 'Market Place'

MUNICH, West Germany (CP)—The Gerda Munsinger story continued to be acted out in the market-place Monday.

The 36-year-old blonde remained in hiding while her agents haggled over contracts with a variety of interests anxious to publish details of her alleged friendship with Canadian cabinet ministers.

Mrs. Munsinger.

Andre von Ferency, dapper young son of the man who has Gerda in his financial pocket, would say only Mrs. Munsinger is "somewhere in Bavaria, with friends."

His father, Joseph, a Hungarian - born literary agent, distributed copies of an enigmatic statement in German, signed by Mrs. Munsinger.

"I hereby declare that I, Gerda Munsinger, was born 10-9-29 (Sept. 10, 1929) at Koenigsberg, East Prussia, and have not, as the press reported, died of leukemia," the statement said.

"SAME PERSON"

"I was from 1955 to 1961 in Canada and I am the same person who has been mentioned in reports concerning the Canadian government."

The signature looked shaky and was barely legible.

All day long at the Ferency home, Ferency and his two sons dealt with a procession of Canadian and other visitors seeking to buy newspaper or television rights to her story.

FACES COMPETITION

The CBC, which had hoped to get television rights, reported it is faced with competition and is awaiting developments from its continuing negotiations.

Munich's press continued to give a mixed picture of the affair. Newspapers such as the sober Suddeutsche Zeitung carried chatty pieces, mainly about all the Canadian reporters in town. A few splashed years-old glamour shots of Gerda, a former beauty queen, across their pages and tried, generally without much success, to indicate that they have the full story of her past.

Leisure Personal Thing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Britain's Prince Philip called for individual freedom in use of leisure time Monday in a university speech and toured a movie studio during a busy visit to Southern California.

Philip was guest of honor at a luncheon at 20th Century-Fox Studio and visited the set of the Jerry Lewis movie, Way . . . Way Out.

Prince Philip was flanked by 10 glamor girls, including Rosalind Russell and Natalie Wood. Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Charlton Heston and Danny Kaye were among others in attendance.

He was the principal speaker at Charter Day ceremonies at the University of California at Los Angeles before a capacity crowd of 13,000 in Pauley Pavilion.

Discussing leisure time, he said:

"I must confess that I am interested in leisure in the same way that a poor man is interested in money. It is quite ridiculous to discuss what is the proper use of leisure. Quite enough human misery is caused by the self-righteous trying to impose their standards on the rest of the community."

"Leisure in fact is what you do with it, according to your personal, ethical, moral and religious beliefs and by the knowledge or lack of knowledge of the possibilities."

His galleries jammed with on-lookers excitedly awaiting fresh developments in the Munsinger sex- and -security allegations touched off by Justice Minister Cardin.

Mr. Hees began by recalling that on several occasions in the last 10 days he stated publicly he did not know a person by the name of Olga Munsinger. That was the name originally used by Mr. Cardin but it subsequently turned out to be Gerda.

"A person of that name is now reported to have said that she lunched with me twice, seven or eight years ago," he said.

"She may well be right. Although I still do not recall knowing any person by that name, I have examined the pictures of that person in the Saturday newspapers and I believe that I recognize the woman pictured there."

"Mr. Speaker, I should like to make a further point abundantly clear," the 55-year-old MP for Northumberland went on.

"The real and only issue which arises from the charges made last week by the minister of justice, both inside and outside this House, is the security of the nation."

"That is the over-riding consideration, and I hasten to assure the House that at no time has my personal conduct jeopardized that security."

"I defy the prime minister and the minister of justice to say that I ever did anything to jeopardize or affect the security of my country. I challenge them now to stand up and say that I did."

PARTED AFTER LUNCH

"But after association with Hees stopped at the door of the downstairs dining room in Ottawa's Chateau Laurier Hotel, where he twice treated her to cocktails and lunch, she said, 'After lunch they parted.'"

An earlier Star story quoted the Munsinger woman about her friendship with Pierre Sevigny, associate defence minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet.

His only previous experience as a commissioner of inquiry was as chairman of the three-man royal commission on coastal shipping of 1955-56.

SON OF A SENATOR

The son of a Toronto lawyer and Liberal senator, Mr. Justice Spence was born in Toronto and attended the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall Law School in 1929 and practised law in Toronto until 1942, when he joined the wartime prices and trade board as administrator of enforcement of price, rental and other controls.

He remained with the board until his appointment in January, 1950, to the Ontario Supreme Court by the St. Laurent government. He was promoted to the Supreme Court of Canada by the Pearson government May 30, 1963.

Mr. Justice Spence's grandparents came to Canada from the Orkney Islands, Scotland, shortly before Confederation and settled in Bruce County, Ontario. His father James Houston Spence, was named to the Senate in 1926 by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and died during the Second World War.

He married the former Elizabeth Potvin and they have one son and one daughter.

Purity of Blood Stream Not Involved in Periods

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: A discussion has been raging at our house for years. One argument is that a young woman's bloodstream becomes more and more impure as the time between her periods progresses, and when she has her period, these impurities are lost. The contention is that she has headache, nervousness, blemishes, or pimples at the beginning of her period, but they disappear afterwards because she has gotten rid of these impurities.

The other thought is that her bloodstream is as pure or impure as at any other time, and that the blemishes, headache or nervousness are probably brought on because her hormones are upset temporarily. Please enlighten us.—MRS. D.H.

This same argument seems (my mail tells me) to be quite widespread, so let's discuss it. The purity of the blood stream is not involved. Nature's purpose in causing a monthly period is not to remove impurities.

Rather, the purpose is to wash away a thin lining of the uterus, so a new one can grow in case next month the ovum is fertilized and a baby begins to form in that lining.

DIFFERENT BLOOD

The blood used in this process is slightly different, in that it flows instead of clots, as blood ordinarily does when it reaches the air—as blood quickly clots when we have a minor wound.

Exactly how the body does this, we do not know. There are innumerable questions about the body. Nature, and the universe which we don't know. How do violets know when to bloom in the spring? Why does water freeze at 32 degrees? Why do we sneeze? Chemistry may be the greatest mystery of life. Right now it is for us to learn all we can about how things happen, without necessarily knowing why.

WHY? HOW?

We can isolate and accumulate hormones, and use them, but we have yet to understand exactly why and how they work. We know a lot about chemistry, but we don't know it all.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does sinus trouble cause sweats and weak spells that last a few minutes? My doctor can't account for these spells.—MRS. A.B.

Sinus disease, if it involves acute infection, can make you very ill, but this, I think, involves fever, pain, considerable nasal discharge. It is unlikely that the spells you describe would stem from that. I'd have the doctor keep on searching for the real cause—and there are many possible ones.

Dear Dr. Molner: I do housework for a lady who has glaucoma. Is it contagious? —J.B. No, you are in no danger.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son would like to have a tattoo on his arm removed. Could it be tattooed over with natural colors or must skin be grafted over it? —MRS. F.E.

Either method is possible and in common use. But neither can be expected to give perfect results, which is why people should think twice before having a tattoo, unless they intend it to be permanent.

Salesman-of-the-year

The secret of making a business grow is, in most cases, quite simple—win more and more customers spread over a wider and wider area. Nothing helps you find them, sell them, satisfy them and re-sell them so quickly and economically as the skilled use of your telephone. Here are just a few profit-making ideas.

Call for Orders

This big-city truck dealer has no problem about keeping in touch with his many customers and prospects in distant parts of the province.

Head office sales staff follow up leads, arrange demonstrations, solicit orders and maintain contact with established customers by a carefully planned routine of Long Distance calls.

Think of the convenience! He has his customers at his fingertips and keeps right up with their requirements. Cost is negligible compared with operating local offices.

Finally, this dealer also lists a ZENITH number in key centres like Nanaimo, Kamloops and Prince George. It enables customers and prospects there to call him without cost to themselves—another valuable business-builder!

Salesman on the Wing

This salesman is on a trip through his company's market area, extending from Vancouver to the Lakehead. One of the most useful things he carries is his B.C. TEL Long Distance Credit Card.

This enables him to make Long Distance calls from anywhere. He uses it constantly to confirm appointments at his next stopover and contact inconveniently located accounts.

He also keeps in daily touch, of course, with head office: reporting on progress, channeling orders, queries and complaints for fast action; collecting fresh leads as he flies from point to point.

His periodic "swing through the territory" is quite an expensive item of overhead. Long Distance ensures, at minimum cost, that his company gets every last cent of value from it.

"Touring" by Phone

This busy Sales Manager "tours" his area in a morning—with B.C. TEL's Sequence Calling service.

He simply gives the operator the list of Long Distance numbers he wants. She gets them for him in the right order and at the intervals most convenient for his other work.

He holds regular Conference Calls, too, with his company's three other offices in Kelowna, Winnipeg and Toronto—all four of them on the line together, talking and listening as though they were in the same room.

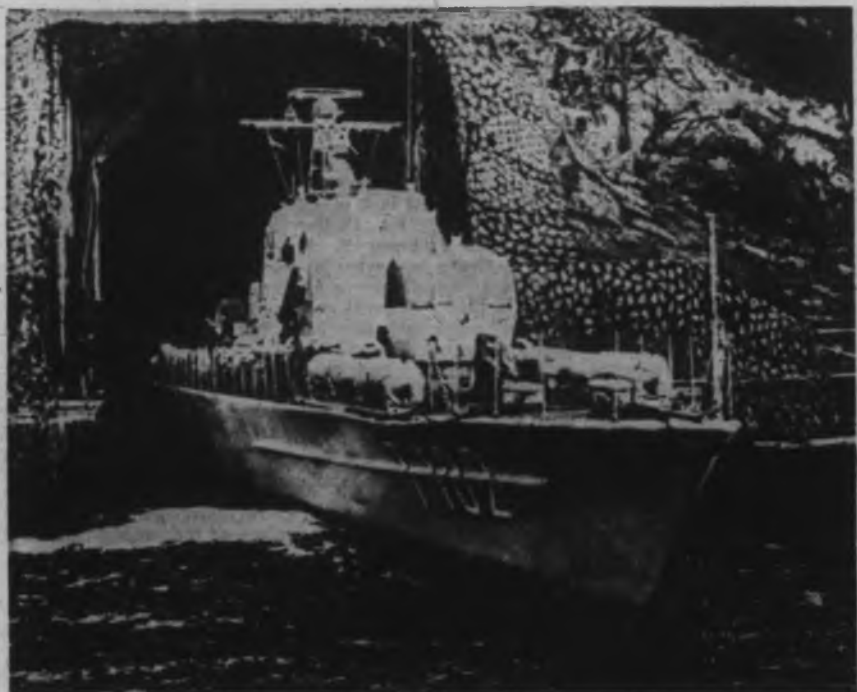

There's no end to the profit-making uses of properly planned Long Distance calling. Ask one of our experienced Communication Consultants to explain some of the possibilities for your business—naturally without obligation. Contact him TODAY.

Rodman to President

CPR's R. A. Emerson Dies Suddenly at 54

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert (Bob) Alton Emerson, 54, who climbed from rodman to president of the CPR in 36 years, died at home Sunday.

A third-generation Canadian Pacific employee, he had been president of the huge CPR organization since October, 1964.

A CPR spokesman said cause of death was believed to be a heart attack. Mr. Emerson died at home Sunday while his wife was away. His body was discovered Monday.

LOADED BOXCARS

Mr. Emerson, fair-haired and compact, was born in a CPR station in Plum Coulee, Man., where his mother, Jennie, was assistant agent for 20 years. As a boy he helped load boxcars. In 1928, while studying civil engineering at the University of Manitoba he took his first summer job with Canadian Pacific, as a rodman.

He took his bachelor of science degree in 1930 and from then on dedicated his life to railways and the CPR.

FAMILY TRADITION

By doing this he carried on a family tradition. His grandfather, the late Bob

Emerson

Emerson, ran a wood-burning locomotive in Canadian Pacific's early days at Winnipeg and his father, Bertram H. Emerson, retired from Canadian Pacific service in 1947 as agent at Bird's Hill, Man., after a long career in the Manitoba district.

Mr. Emerson worked with CPR in many parts of Western Canada before coming to Montreal in 1948 as engineer of trucks. By 1964 he was elected president of the company and appointed chief operating officer.

STUDIED AT YALE

He attended Yale University in 1933-34 where he took post-graduate studies in transportation under the Strathcona Memorial Fellowship.

In 1962 the University of Manitoba gave him the honorary degree of doctor of laws. In Ottawa Monday, Transport Minister Pickersgill said he was "deeply shocked" at the news of Mr. Emerson's death.

'PERSONAL LOSS'

He said as fellow graduates of the University of Manitoba "Mr. Emerson and I had many common friends and our own relations in recent years have been close."

In Montreal, Donald Gordon, chairman and president, Canadian National Railways, said: "It is with a sense of personal loss and deep shock that I learn of the untimely death of Mr. R. A. Emerson. We have been close business associates for many years and he was undoubtedly one of the best informed railroaders in North America."

Landreville Probe

Promoters Queried About Appointment

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Rand commission investigating the fitness of Mr. Justice Leo Landreville to remain on the Supreme Court of Ontario was told Monday Mr. Landreville asked the two chief promoters of a gas company whether he should accept the court appointment at the time it was offered in 1956.

C. Spencer Clark, a financier of Seattle, Wash., who was then executive vice-president of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Co., said he advised Mr. Landreville to take the court position rather than wait for a possible job as an executive of the company.

Mr. Justice Landreville has been mayor of Sudbury where NONG in 1956 obtained a gas franchise there. After his appointment to the court, he received 7,500 shares of stock in the company, from which he netted $117,000 without putting up any money.

Hon. Ivan C. Rand, retired justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, Monday opened a judicial inquiry for the federal government to determine whether there has been "misbehaviour" on the Ontario judge's part or whether the transaction has made him "unfit" for the judicial duties.

Mr. Clark, who now is board chairman of Northern and Central Gas Co., as NONG has since been renamed, told the inquiry there had been some discussion about Mr. Landreville joining the firm at the expiration of his mayoralty term at the end of 1956 and related that for this reason he had been offered 10,000 NONG shares at the sub-market price of $2.50 right after the Sudbury franchise was approved in July, 1956.

OFFERED SAME TERMS

It was on somewhat the same terms that were being offered shareholders, he testified.

That September, the financier said, Mayor Landreville met him and Ralph K. Farris of Vancouver—then president of NONG—and told them "he had been offered a position on the Ontario bench and what did we think of it."

"It was put up to us, I thought, quite peculiarly for a man of Mr. Landreville's standing," Mr. Clark said, as the judge under investigation listened to his evidence. He said Mr. Landreville asked whether he should accept the judgeship or refuse it in the light of his possible future with NONG.

UNCERTAIN

"I counselled him on the old premise of a bird in the hand," Mr. Clark said. At the time, he added, the financial outlook for NONG—which subsequently became a blue chip—was by no means certain.

Cyprus Funds Swelled

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Britain and Turkey Monday pledged a total of $1,250,000 for the U.N. peace-keeping operation in Cyprus.

The Security Council was scheduled to meet Tuesday morning and was expected to approve Secretary General Thant's recommendation the two-year-old operation be continued for at least another six months — until Sept. 26.

Lord Cawston, British Minister of state, in a note to Thant, said that Britain had contributed $7,370,452 to the Cyprus operation up to last Dec. 28. He pledged a new contribution of $1,000,000 on the assumption that the deficit of the peace-keeping operation is about $5,000,000, that the remainder of the shortage is met from other sources and that the British contribution does not exceed 20 per cent of the deficit.

Last Friday, Thant reported a current deficit of $4,147,000 for the Cyprus operation.

Canadian Gift Presented

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI) — Milton Gregg, Canadian high commissioner in British Guiana, has formally handed over the first shipment of Canadian road building equipment to the Guiana government.

The shipment, valued at more than $800,000, was a gift from the government and people of Canada. At the presentation ceremony, Saturday, Gregg said the equipment was of a kind needed immediately and was similar to the type offered through other aid schemes.

Minister of works and hydraulics, Mohamed Kasim, said in reply that through the use of the latest equipment, better methods and techniques, astonishing road-making results were achieved in Guiana last year.

Firm's Treasury Financed Sale

TORONTO (CP) — Within 15 months of buying control of Aurora Leasing Corp. Ltd. with money from its own treasury, C. Powell Morgan, Harry Wagon and William Walton made a profit of $97,272, a royal commission was told Monday.

Mr. Morgan was president of now-bankrupt Atlantic Acceptance Corp., while the other two men were chartered accountants and business associates of Mr. Morgan.

TESTIMONY

Charles T. Austin, a chartered accountant who worked on Aurora's records for the commission, said the $97,272 was the excess of receipts over disbursements from a deposit account at a Guaranty Trust Co. office in the name of Walton and Wagon in trust.

Mr. Austin was testifying before the royal commission, headed by Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes of the Ontario Supreme Court, which is investigating the multi-million-dollar failure of Atlantic Acceptance in June, 1965.

AGREED TO SALE

He said that in September, 1960, Aurora's controlling shareholders George Mecklar and M. J. Lazar agreed to sell their

The Next Advance

IN A PROVINCE developing as rapidly as British Columbia, it is fitting that there should be another redistribution of electoral districts to conform with changes of population patterns in five years, as Premier Bennett has now promised. That will make the next review in 1971, and it is to be hoped and expected of course that it will come at a period when advantage can be taken of the decennial census of that year, when the accurate new figures are available.

Perhaps the premier's announced intention of having another redistribution so soon is somewhat at odds with one reason given for the government's departure from the recommendation of the Angus commission that the number of constituencies in the north should be reduced from seven to five, and the retention in the bill before the House of all seven—a departure that then led, in fairness, to the addition of one more seat for the Kootenays. This was that the northern half of the province was opening up so quickly.

A re-drawing of the map in five years might be taken as sufficient recognition of this rapid growth. On the other hand, it remains a good argument that the MLAs for the northern region have vast and difficult territories to cover. Not too many voters would disagree entirely with the premier's contention that seven seats constitute a minimum representation for a half of the province.

Hopefully now British Columbia can look forward to regular revision of constituency boundaries at five-year intervals, or after every decennial census at least. The present redistribution represents a laudable advance over the approach of the past, in that it is being carried out for the most part according to the report of an independent commission and without subsequence being much twisted to the advantage of the party in power. But it was far too long in coming, and the next advance will be to keep representation more constantly in line with the changing population picture of a dynamic province.

Sukarno Toppled

THE CHILDREN of Indonesia, it appears, have won a battle—and an important one it is—in that populous nation's continuing war for economic stability and political freedom.

Ever since President Achmed Sukarno dismissed his anti-Communist defence minister, General Abdul Nasution, and reinstated pro-leftists to his top-heavy, 100-man cabinet, students have been riotously protesting.

It was the foreign minister, Mr. Subandrio, who was the particular target of the students' wrath, for, oddly enough, in spite of his arrogance, his fantastic prodigality in his personal life while his countrymen are facing a condition of famine, and his clearly failing competence to rule, President Sukarno retains the tolerant affection of his people.

Now Mr. Subandrio is gone, following Saturday's ultimatum to the president from General Suharto, a tough anti-Communist and a professional soldier, and once again the Communist party is outlawed. It was outlawed at the time of last October's abortive leftist coup, too, by the people's favorite, General Nasution, but it did not take long for Peking's influence to reassert itself in the presidential palace. And out went Nasution and back came Subandrio.

Once again the pendulum has swung—this time with a vigorous prod from the right-wing student majority, and undoubtedly there were, but in the background, the agents of the right-wing army encouraging the students in their demonstrations.

Out of all the confusion emerge several developments which have an important bearing on Indonesia's future:

● Politically, General Suharto is steering a cautious, middle-of-the-road course;

● Sukarno's dream of ultimately overcoming Malaysia must finally have been exploded and the years of angry confrontation now are past;

● With a less cumbersome government, led by a determined man, Indonesia has some hope of success by concentrating on another sort of confrontation—against hunger and want;

● And finally, almost anything would be better than what the Indonesians had under Sukarno's leadership, distinguished chiefly by his personal ambitions, his extravagances, and his recent ineptitude.

Valuable Silence

THE BEST WAY to sell your old house is to switch off the radio, unplug the hi-fi and SHUT UP. At least this is the advice being given American home owners by the U.S. National Institute of Real Estate Brokers.

In a leaflet called "Showmanship" published by the institute containing tips and hints on how to get the best price for your old house the authors underline silence as the cardinal rule.

Even if you are a music lover, the experts say, turn off the sound, no matter how mellow you think it is. Music, they say, distracts the potential customer.

And, they add, speak only when you are spoken to.

Silence, it would happily appear, has once again come into its golden own. And now that a material value has been placed on it perhaps it will be used a little more often—even in that House in Ottawa.

MR. DIEFENBAKER: . . . The other day the minister read a long screed, obviously extramurally prepared.

Mr. Cardin: Mr. Chairman, I rise on a question of privilege. I presume the right hon. gentleman is subject to the rules of this house, just as the rest of us common mortals are, and I insist that they be applied.

Mr. Diefenbaker: It is not the first time he read a speech prepared elsewhere; let me make that clear.

Mr. Cardin: Mr. Chairman, I can tell hon. members this: when it comes to writing anything about the right hon. gentleman I do not need any writers because it flows like magic.

Psephology Plays No Part

By CASSANDRA from LONDON

I THINK that easily the most handsome present I can make to my readers during the forthcoming general election is not to use the word psephology after today, for if ever a luckless combination of letters is going to get a battering and be dragged through the hedge backwards during this March, that word is pse etcetera.

And just to stave off the readers who may momentarily have forgotten what it means, pse etcetera is the study of election trends, and for those extra-smarty-pants who are going to write to me and tell me that pse etcetera is derived from the Greek word psephos meaning a pebble which was used for voting, let me tell them I know, I know.

The pse boys have already been doing a lot of very hard work indeed about this election, and they have told us that although there are nearly 28 million votes around, only about 50,000 people on the national register will decide who is going to be our next government.

These lads and lassies are the floating voters and are on dry land instead of drifting about off the end of Southend Pier as you might think.

They reside to a considerable degree in twenty London constituencies in places like Norwood and Uxbridge and Woolwich and Chislehurst.

One of the main characteristics of this precious band of electors is that their minds are not made up nor can they ever be really made up for there is nothing to make up. Basically they don't know who the heck to vote for.

Thus millions of pounds will be spent and the national economy of the country seriously disrupted by a bunch of bird-brained men who read what the stars forecast and are seriously influenced by the phases of the moon and the message of the mystic runes.

If twenty constituencies and less than one per cent of the voters suffering from the acute shilly-shallies can decide the political fate of the nation, what about having one constituency and one voter to do the job. Think of the money we'd save.

And oh, by the way, I would be the voter.

The ordinary child's education in the United States seems to me to be a howling failure made worse by the useless meddling of interfering parents.

I remember one of the earliest occasions when I came up to the ears in the swamps of general knowledge as understood in America. Owing to bizarre circumstances, which I won't go into now, it was once my duty to give a lecture to the crew of an American destroyer newly commissioned out of San Diego.

We were, at the time, swanning around off Nettuno in Italy where we were supposed to be bombarding the German troops on the Anzio Plain. My task (as a gunner) was to explain to these members of the United States Navy what the war in Europe was all about.

I started with North Africa and was horrified that not only had they no idea where North Africa was, but were extremely hazy round the edges as far as the entire continent of Africa was—although it is well over three times as large as the United States. On the map we settled for "this big lump here."

The lecture was not a very learned affair nor a success and would probably have been better if I had substituted South Dakota for Poland and Mississippi for Germany.

It was not long before I was asked to explain to the crew of the destroyer what the war in Europe was all about.

Too Many People?—(1)

World's Population Growth Reaches Staggering Pace

THE natural preoccupation of the daily press with the kaleidoscope range of immediate world events is apt to divert attention from the greatest world problem of all—the rapidly increasing pressure of an expanding population on world resources, especially at land. In some crowded countries the problem is already so immediate as to dominate national policies—one thinks of Japan or the Netherlands—elsewhere it is inevitable, if not immediate.

World population is expanding

This is the first of a series of articles by Sir Dudley Stamp and Professor T. A. Bennett, two very distinguished authorities, who come to rather different conclusions regarding the capacity of the world to feed the teeming millions which must result from what is popularly known as "the population explosion." Sir Dudley expounds his theories in the first two articles in this series, printed with permission of Progress Quarterly of Great Britain.

By SIR DUDLEY STAMP

at a rate never before remotely approached in the whole course of history: a net gain of 2 per cent per annum, so that the 3,300,000,000 people on the earth today will present another 65,000,000 mouths to be fed by the time next year. It is a fearsome thought that this time tomorrow there will be added to world population some 180,000 persons, or a number equal to the total population of a city like Aberdeen, Swansea or Sunderland. Basically the increasing rate of world population growth is the result of recent advances in medical science and skill. The knowledge and practice of what has been called death control have overtaken the knowledge and practice of birth control. Mainly over the past half-century, wherever modern medicine and modern services have penetrated, infant mortality and maternity mortality have been reduced to a small fraction of the old figures, the old killing diseases such as smallpox, diphtheria, tuberculosis, yellow fever, cholera and plague, have been so far brought under control as to have lost their terror; the life cycles of disease organisms causing such diseases as malaria are known, and complete eradication depends solely on intensification or removal measures; powerful new drugs are at hand to control threat-posed epidemics which might previously have devastated whole populations. As a result, expectation of life at birth has been doubled in many countries. Cardin Under Attack

VANCOUVER (UPI) — National NDP leader T. C. Douglas said Monday his party would vote to defeat the government over its handling of the Munsinger case.

But he doubts the Liberal administration will be toppled because the Creditists have said "they will support the government, and the Social Credit will probably follow suit," he added.

Douglas, in Vancouver for a speaking engagement, criticized Justice Minister Cardin especially.

'HANDLED BADLY'
"He handled the whole situation very badly, and the prime minister looks exceptionally incompetent in the face of the current situation," he added.

Douglas condemned Cardin's actions in calling a press conference "and making back-shot accusations which he wouldn't substantiate in the House... accusations that touch 23 or 24 persons."

"I find it difficult to understand how a man who hadn't read the file could say 'the woman was a spy, that she was a security risk, was forced to leave Canada... and had died four years ago.'"

She was located in Munich Friday by a Toronto reporter and since then there have been reports she would return to Canada to clear her name.

The official said every major airport in the country is under close surveillance by RCMP and immigration agents as a result.

'TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Fisher, former New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Port Arthur, says he heard the names of four cabinet ministers connected with Gerda Munsinger.

Mr. Fisher, appearing Sunday night on the CBC television program This Hour Has Seven Days, said two of the men he heard of were English-speaking and two French-speaking.

He made the comment after Laurier LaPierre, one of the program's hosts, complained that former associate defence minister Pierre Seigny had been linked to Mrs. Munsinger.

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Seigny, former associate defence minister in the Diefenbaker government, said Monday he received a telephone call Friday from Gerda Munsinger and he "was flabbergasted."

He said in an interview the call from Munich, West Germany, came to his home and was directed to him at his office.

Mr. Seigny gave no details of the telephone conversation.

A LARGE MANSION

Situated near Government House, this represents one of the last opportunities to acquire one of Victoria's fine old homes.

Many have been converted into multiple family dwellings or real homes, etc. This property is eminently suited for single family or institutional occupancy. Of massive construction, the building surveys an air of solidity from basement to attic.

Accommodation includes:
Spacious entrance hall, three handsome reception rooms, five principal bedrooms, three full bathrooms, three washrooms, staff accommodation, large rumpus room with fireplace.

Three garages. Excellent hot and cold water heating system. Magnificent views of sea and mountains from main rooms. The building is structurally sound but will require considerable expenditure for redecoration. However, this has been more than allowed for at the sale price of $22,500.

The garden extends to approx. two-thirds of an acre and affords considerable seclusion and privacy on the south side of the residence.

Torys' Bid Lost

tended to discuss the case at his Thursday press conference.

There were some opposition jeers when Mr. Cardin said he didn't believe it would be right in name in the Commons the former ministers he had said were involved with the German woman.

MATTER FOR INQUIRY

This should be a matter for the inquiry, he said. Mr. Fulton, who carried the major share of the Conservative argument, said the government's tactics constituted a witch-hunt and an invitation to all future governments to ransack the files to find anything embarrassing to a former administration.

Government just wouldn't work on such a basis. The tactics employed by the government would ruin Canada's democratic system.

NOT THESE TACTICS

"We will not follow these tactics," Mr. Fulton said.

"When we assumed office (in 1957) there were plenty of security files. We never once mentioned them and do not intend to do so now."

Mr. Fulton said Mr. Pearson has turned down his request for another look at the RCMP's 1961 Munsinger file.

Mr. Fulton said he must draw the inference that the file refutes the charges made by Mr. Cardin "and the government knows it."

Mr. Pearson was deficient in "courage and honesty."

Mr. Fulton said his recollection of the file made it impossible for Mr. Cardin to prove his charges. The file had contained no suggestion that there had been any breach of security or that Gerda Munsinger had sought or received any secret information.

OTHER MATTERS

The police had not been investigating a security matter when they reported on Mrs. Munsinger. Their investigation concerned other matters, not specified by Mr. Fulton.

Mr. Fulton said he can't prove that Mrs. Munsinger had never spied. But certainly she had never spied in Canada. And no photographs had ever been shown to him.

Mr. Fulton said the "ugly atmosphere in Parliament" could be purged only by Mr. Cardin resigning now. He could thus restore his own stature and that of Parliament. If he didn't resign, Mr. Pearson should dismiss him.

LAST RESORT

Mr. Diefenbaker said the case was used as a last resort by the government to get off the hot seat of the Spencer case.

Mr. Diefenbaker leavened his attack with some wit which the Liberals applauded as loudly as the opposition.

Why, he said, he had let everyone know he'd be absent from the Commons last Thursday and Friday and "in the two days I'm away, Parliament almost falls to pieces."

He drew more laughter when he referred to Mr. Cardin's statement that Mrs. Munsinger had died of leukemia in East Germany some years ago—then turned up alive in West Germany.

"What a resurrection," he declared.

"I don't say everything I did was right," Mr. Diefenbaker said, thumping his desk. "But I do say everything I did was honest."

NO LOOK AT RECORDS

When he had assumed office there had been suggestions that he look over the records of the Liberal government.

"I said not one look or one peek... I followed that 100 per cent. We did not snoop. We do not snoop. Not one examination of one file was made by me... To do otherwise would be to undermine our democratic system."

Mr. Cardin challenged Mr. Diefenbaker to stake his Commons seat on the outcome of the commission inquiry.

"Then we will know who has courage and who has not," he said.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker saw the Munsinger file and knows the names of those involved.

Mr. Diefenbaker jumped up again and said Mr. Cardin should name names now.

Mr. Cardin said all Mr. Diefenbaker had to do was to go to his colleagues and tell them who was not involved.

Mr. Fulton said he was "astounded, amazed and sickened" to hear Mr. Cardin suggest that Mr. Diefenbaker should act in such a way.

Mr. Fulton led off debate when the House resumed at 8 p.m. EST.

CONCENTRATE

He said the commissioner should be instructed to concentrate on the accuracy of charges Mr. Cardin made at a bomb-shell press conference last Thursday.

Mr. Fulton said the terms of reference do not refer directly to these allegations, although they were the most serious ones.

He asked that a letter from Mr. Cardin to Mr. Pearson, tabled Friday, be deleted from the terms. The letter was an attempt by the justice minister to deny his more far-reaching charges at the Thursday press conference.

The Conservatives wanted a judicial inquiry into the case, provided it did not infringe Parliament's right to decide its own questions of rights and privileges.

He felt an all-party committee might produce terms of reference that would be more acceptable to all. He hoped the government would accept amendments suggested by the committee.

He asked that statements by Mr. Pearson indicating that the Munsinger inquiry will deal mainly with possible security leaks be added to the terms.

He recalled that he received a confidential RCMP file on the Munsinger woman when he was justice minister. He had discussed the case with then prime minister Diefenbaker the same day.

Unlike the Pearson cabinet, the Conservative government had not operated in watertight compartments. He had not waited to inform Mr. Diefenbaker casually on a plane, he added, in a reference to Mr. Pearson's remark that he had forgotten about the Lucien Rivard affair after being informed on a plane by former justice minister Guy Favreau.

WANTS TERM DEFINED

Mr. Fulton said it is important for the prime minister to say what he means by the term "security" when he uses it in reference to this case.

The words in the order-in-council did not accurately reflect the press conference charges made by the justice minister. There had been a direct implication that two or more ministers were not just involved with the Munsinger woman but "improperly involved."

"Just deal with what I said," Mr. Cardin snapped from his seat.

SPELL OUT CHARGES

Mr. Fulton said the terms should spell out clearly a charge that ministers were involved with Gerda Munsinger and that such an involvement was a security risk.

Furthermore, if the Munsinger woman was a security risk, "who let her in?"

She had arrived in Canada in 1955 when the Liberals were in office, Mr. Pickersgill was then immigration minister.

When Mr. Pickersgill started to protest on a question of privilege, Speaker Lucien Lamoureaux cut him off. A question of privilege was already before the House and a fresh one could not be introduced.

Mr. Pickersgill said he is "not in the least embarrassed" by the fact he was immigration minister when Mrs. Munsinger entered Canada. He asked why she had not become a Canadian citizen after five years.

SHOULD KNOW CHARGES

Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) said it is the basic principle of British Justice that a person accused must be told what charges he faced. Then it was up to the accuser to prove those charges.

He described the order-in-council as "a most incredible jodgepodge of vague generalizations, disconnected and unattributed charges... based on hearsay, on information which the minister of justice says is based on a file he's never seen."

Rockets Oust Fairy Tales

Space-Age Inspires Young Saanich Readers

By JIM BRAHAN

The explosive roar of space-bound rockets has blasted the ancient fairy-tale from the top of the favored reading list for youngsters. Space-age reports of moon shots, Venus probes and manned capsules rendezvousing in space, all tend to send Saanich youngsters hurrying to the branch library in search of interplanetary travel novels, says librarian Alice Mooney.

"The moon shots have stimulated a lot of interest in the children," she said.

The branch library opened in the Town and Country Shopping Centre in January, and since then 17,301 books have been taken on loan, the librarian said.

She noted that the number of books borrowed by children was nearly double that of those on loan to adults.

From 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, 569 books had been taken on loan, 337 of them by children.

"Many of the older students are interested in the world's explorers, sports, mysteries and adventure stories."

"Many of the older students are interested in books on occupations and professions," the librarian said.

Burnside Elementary School student David John of 3266 Whittier, said he read about three books each week, mostly on sports.

His friend Randy Bennett, 3313 Whittier, said that with his card he could only take out three books, and wondered if he could get a second card and take out six.

"It's going to be a long weekend," he explained to the librarian.

Wrong Way Lasts One Mile

ABBOTSFORD (CP)—Drivers stared incredulously Sunday when a 74-year-old Vancouver woman made a U-turn on the divided Trans-Canada Highway near here and started driving east in the west-bound lane.

Police said the woman missed a turnoff, reversed direction and started down the wrong side of the road through heavy traffic.

She got about a mile when her car was in collision with another car.

No one was injured, but damage to the cars was estimated at more than $1,000.

Food Stall Operator Still Seeks Successor

Mrs. E. E. Harper is still hoping the surplus food stall she has run for many years won't have to close, but time is running out for someone else to take it over.

Mrs. Harper, who has been with the stall for 17 years, is retiring, and five of her regular helpers — all over 72 — will also be dropping out after Saturday's final day.

For 150 families, loss of the stall will mean tightening of the belts. Mrs. Harper's work has been to distribute food that some people don't need among other people who do.

Mrs. Harper, who lives at 5635 Patricia Bay Highway, has offered to turn the whole operation over to some capable person, but so far has no takers.

If a "retired woman with plenty of free time, a car, and an understanding heart and husband" is willing to carry on the work, Mrs. Harper said, she will be most relieved. Her telephone is 658-8177.

There are approximately 70 Shawnigan Lake School old boys in Greater Victoria, and about 1,000 on the continent.

Founded in 1916 by C. W. Lonsdale, the school has grown from six to 235 boys and turns away 40 qualified applicants each year.

The amazing success story of Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawks' dynamic goal scorer, is chronicled by the Star Weekly's Jim Hunt in a new full-length book, heralded as the publishing event of the season. Not just another story of hockey, it's a revealing glimpse into the private life of a Greek God! What makes the Golden Jet so great? Read the first of two fascinating instalments in this week's Star Weekly.

Norma Macdonald Remembered

Concert Memorial for Victorian

Singers, musicians and entertainers who were helped and encouraged by Mrs. Norma Macdonald, former proprietor of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel and a victim of a recent plane crash in Japan, will perform in a memorial concert at the McPherson Playhouse March 28.

Object will be to raise $5,000 toward a concert grand piano for the Victoria School of Music.

to be recognized as a memorial to Mrs. Macdonald. Greater Victoria Centennial Society is promoting the event. John Dunbar heads the list of well-known performers who played engagements at the hotel.

Others already on the program include contralto Peggy

Walton Packard, dancer Wendy Packard, Lancashire comedian Bert Williams, singer and pianist Pierre and Grace Timp, banjost and pianist Jack and Betty Fitness, organist Reginald Stone and Jerry Gosley and members of the Smile Show.

More will be invited to take part.

The memorial piano will be kept at the Victoria School of Music but will be available to the McPherson Playhouse without charge whenever the occasion merits its use. Donations are being accepted at the school. A six-foot grand piano is already available for permanent use in the playhouse.

Coalition Invited In Austria

VIENNA (UPI) — Conservative Party chancellor-designate Joseph Klaus, Monday, officially invited the Austrian Socialist Party to join in forming a new coalition government.

Klaus' move ended speculation that the 20-year alliance of the Socialists and Conservatives in what was described as the "world's most stable government" had been dealt a death blow in the March 6 national elections.

The Conservative People's Party led by Klaus scored an overwhelming victory in the election and topped its parliamentary representation in the 165-seat national parliament from 81 seats to 85, a majority.

Heads Guild

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Robert F. Cook of Vancouver has been elected president of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (CMSG). At a meeting here, the Guild approved resolutions pertaining to new national bylaws, policy and the election of new officers.

We ran an ad a while ago showing just a Volkswagen with the price underneath it.

It did a very good job of telling people how much a Volkswagen costs to buy.

It did such a good job, in fact, most people began to think only of our price. And not the many ways you can arrange to buy a VW.

Most people weren't aware of just how easy it is to get a Volkswagen financed through a Volkswagen dealer. On the best of terms.

And some people didn't know we were ready to take all kinds of trades. Big cars. Small cars. Old cars. Late model cars. Compacts.

So now you know.

We made up this repayment chart just to

Just because our price is low doesn't mean you have to pay it all at once.

Rate Boost No Surprise

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The weekend increase of half of one per cent in the Bank of Canada rediscount rate to 5 1/2 per cent was taken more or less philosophically in the bond market when trading opened Monday.

Traders initially marked down prices in long term government bonds by about three-quarters of a point, but this produced some buying activity, and at the close most government and many provincial issues had rallied strongly, closing within a quarter point of Friday's quotations.

"The bank move had been anticipated," said one dealer. "It was only in line with the increase made last week in the prime lending rate of leading New York banking houses."

The effect was more pronounced on the stock market where the further evidence of tight and high-priced money was regarded with some suspicion. Canadian stock prices in addition moved down in sympathy with dull and lower New York trading.

In foreign exchange trading the Canadian dollar was strengthened by the higher rediscount rate. The U.S. dollar was off 1.32 at 1.07 19-32 and the pound dipped 3-16th to 3.00 13-16.

AIRLINE FINANCES

A convertible debenture paying interest at the rate of seven per cent and convertible into common shares for five years is being issued by Pacific Western Airlines.

The Vancouver-based company which is now rated third largest in the Canadian commercial aviation field, says the bonds being offered at par will mature April 1, 1976 and may be converted at $5.71 into common shares until April 1, 1968, and at $6.25 until April 1, 1971, when the conversion privilege expires. PWA common shares are currently selling around $4.75.

All but $311,000 of the new capital will be used to retire existing debts.

Pacific Western says it is divesting itself of some of its smaller runs and is hoping to take over other runs presently serviced by the trans-continental lines under recently formulated government airline policy.

NORANDA PROFIT GROWS
Noranda Mines net profit for 1965 was $38,209,416 ($3.08)

compared with $32,357,384 ($2.76) in 1964.

Higher prices for copper contributed to increased earnings, said the company in its annual report, but the gains were offset by lower production and higher exploration costs.

Noranda expects its new $60,000,000 Northwood pulp mill at Prince George (jointly owned with Mead Corporation of Dayton, Ohio) will start up this summer while the $75,000,000 potash mining venture in Saskatchewan will be ready to go in 1968.

CIGARETTES COST MORE
Keeping presumably within the Presidential guidelines some of the U.S. tobacco companies Monday increased their price of cigarettes.

The advance amounts to one cent a pack. The lead was given by American Tobacco Company followed by Philip Morris.

The increase by American Tobacco excludes one filter brand which has been reduced in price.

Although U.S. cigarette prices vary from state to state as they do between province and province in Canada, the price of the pack in the U.S. is not greatly different from what it is in Canada.

TAB SAND SPENDING
Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. has spent $78,000,000 of its projected expenditures of $230,000,000 at the end of 1965, according to W. Harold Rea, chairman of the company which is preparing to extract oil from the Athabasca tar sands.

Mr. Rea said the building which will house the steam and power facilities has been completed and that construction of the processing units was in progress. In addition the clearing of the overburden from the tar-sands was under way.

Bridge, roads and the pipeline linking the plant with Fort McMurray and Edmonton were progressing favorably. The pipeline is due for completion in May.

Mr. Rea said 30 per cent of the work was complete and the plant which will produce 45,000 barrels a day was ahead of schedule.

COAST HUNT BATHURST

Net earnings of Bathurst Paper Company in 1965 dropped sharply to $2,154,226 (85 cents) from $3,672,412 ($1.38) in 1964. The company said the drop was due to higher costs, preparation for a new linerboard mill at New Richmond, Quebec, and increased competition in the sale of corrugated products.

Bathurst said, however, its 1966 outlook is favorable and expects its sale of paperboards will be 70 per cent ahead of 1965. A tax holiday will also be provided from production of the new mill.

Bathurst is an equal partner with Bowaters Canadian Corp. Ltd. for the future establishment of a major pulp and paper operation in B.C.

Charge Aimed At France

TAPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—Nationalist China charged France Sunday with breaking international law by evicting the staff from the former Nationalist Embassy in Paris.

The French government forcefully ousted the skeleton staff Saturday.

France then turned the building over to Communist China.

Paris and the Nationalist Chinese government severed relations when France recognized Communist China in 1961.

A French foreign ministry spokesman said the ouster followed at least three requests to the Nationalists to leave.

Health Week Declared Open

OTTAWA (CPI)—Mrs. Margaret Rideout, parliamentary secretary to the minister of health and welfare, officially declared open Canada's 22nd Health Week at a Parliament Hill ceremony. In a statement marking the special week, March 13 to 19, Prime Minister Pearson said health hazards associated with traffic, home accidents, lung cancer and heart disease can be appreciably reduced or eliminated. He commended the sponsors, the Health League of Canada.

Everyone talks about the weather. Canadian Pacific does something about it.

Come rain or come shine, Canadian Pacific has a new car that's a stand-out in any kind of weather. It's called a Mechanical Refrigerator Car which is kind of a long name for something this simple.

In essence, the Canadian Pacific "Refrigerator Car" carries its own climate. You select the temperature for your particular merchandise and the reefer car maintains it. Right away this car opens up all sorts of possibilities for shippers of perishable goods because it has a temperature range of below 0°F to 75°F. But let's not forget shippers of frozen foods. Or dressed beef, where a constant temperature of 32° to 34°F is demanded.

There's a little "extra" for beef shippers in the reefer car. A patented meat rail system. Using this system, three men who wouldn't know a bullock from a cowlick can unload the entire car in one hour and ten minutes. Quite a labour-saving bonus. One more thing about the remarkable reefer car. It has big wide doors that you can put a forklift through.

Next time you're talking reliable shipment of frozen, perishable or off the hoof goods, talk to a Canadian Pacific freight traffic representative about the Mechanical Refrigerator Car. The one that blows hot or cold anytime of year.

Sovereign Quebec New Party's Goal

QUEBEC (CP) — Formation of a new provincial political party to campaign for the sovereignty of Quebec was announced here Sunday night. Still nameless and leaderless, its founders are elements of the Quebec wing of Le Ralliement des Creditistes and the separatist Regroupement National.

The move follows weekend conventions of the two parties during which the executives of the two voted on the alliance.

The Union Nationale was earlier reported interested in the new party, but party founders said talks with Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson proved fruitless.

Announcement of the new party was made Sunday at a joint press conference by Laurent Legault, former provincial president of the Creditistes, and Regroupement President Dr. Rene Jutras, an avowed separatist.

The party will seek what it described as an "associate state" status for Quebec, under which the province would issue

Profiteer Executed In Saigon

SAIGON (AP)—A government firing squad Monday executed the first war profiteer sentenced to death in Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's pledged crackdown against widespread graft and corruption.

A battalion of Vietnamese paratroops sealed off the Saigon market place to prevent any interference from the city's large Chinese population as Ts Vinh, 34, a wealthy businessman of Chinese descent, was tied to the execution stake.

The government rejected all appeals for clemency for the father of eight who had been convicted of "economic sabotage." The charges against Vinh, manager of an import-export firm, included hoarding, speculation, illegal transfer of funds and bribery.

Carpenters, Contractors Seek Solution

Conciliation talks in the province's carpenters-contractors dispute open today in Vancouver. The two sides will meet with conciliation officer George Carmichael in an attempt to settle differences, which broke in negotiations after two meetings.

The 29 locals, comprising 8,000 men, are represented by the Provincial Council of Carpenters, the contractors by a construction industry joint negotiating committee.

The carpenters, now paid $3.49 an hour, are seeking a 35-hour week, an extra 30 cents over two years and no reduction in pay because of the shorter week.

They have been offered 45 cents over three years, but no cut in working hours.

During negotiations, the contractors said they would meet wage demands if the union, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, agreed to waive the present system of union-hall hiring.

They rejected the demand for a shorter working week.

CALGARY (CP) — Laverne Lechelt, a young Calgary mother, was sentenced to one day in jail and made to sign a $500 bond to keep the peace for two years after she pleaded guilty Monday to attempting to kill her two children.

Mrs. Lechelt pleaded guilty in Supreme Court to one count of attempted infanticide and one

A big tri-level train shipment of cars from American Motors on the way to sales success.

We like to start revolutions in the car business.

We started another one last year. We introduced our new, full-size Ambassador.

That was a revolution to remember. We packed Ambassador chock-full of quality features and engineering. Up-to-the-roof Deep-Dip Rust-proofing. Unique Ceramic-Armoured exhaust system. Oh yes, and solid, all-welded, Single-Unit Construction. And the unbeatable safety of a double brake system.

And then the fun began. To Ambassador's basic quality we built in remarkable luxury. Crafted walnut paneling, adjustable arm rests, head rests, thick-cut pile carpeting, floor consoles, coil-spring seats, powerful V8 performance. The whole works. An inspired luxury car.

But wait. There's an important difference between Ambassador and other luxury cars. Ambassador is popular-priced.

You see, most manufacturers put their best features on their high-priced luxury models. We do, too—except that our luxury model is popular-priced.

And that's just where our revolution caught the fancy of car buyers from coast to coast.

We sold three times as many Ambassadors as the previous year. Now, this year, Ambassador sales are streaking higher still. Ambassador sales are currently 41% higher than last year!

Are we sitting back and relaxing? Not on your life. We're producing more Ambassadors every day to meet the demand. At this moment, your nearby American Motors/Rambler dealer has a luxurious Ambassador just for you.

Talk of Home, Then...

U.S. Unit in Blazing Last-Minute Battle

By ROBERT FAAS
D-ZONE, Viet Nam (AP) — In the dense jungle of D-zone, a Viet Cong stronghold where even the moonlight can barely break through the thick brush, a bomb crater was filled with wounded U.S. soldiers.

These men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade had known this would be their last battle; their year in Viet Nam was nearly over.

During the sleepless Saturday night, as artillery and air strikes shook the earth, they talked about home.

Twelve hours later, the men of B company, 2nd Battalion, were fighting for their lives. In the crater dug about as deep and wide as a big truck by a B-52 bomb, medics worked feverishly, crawling over wounded, ducking at the crack of 50-calibre machine-gun bullets.

B company's commander, Capt. Romie L. Brownlee, 23, crouched between the thick roots of a towering tree, his left arm wracked by the pain of shrapnel wounds. Between his shoulder and chin, he cradled a field telephone, directing his men.

The enemy was just 75 yards away, firing furiously. At the start of the day, nine soldiers of the 2nd Battalion got separated from the others on a patrol near the Song Be River, some 30 miles northeast of Saigon.

"I walked ahead of the file," said Sgt. Albert Guarisco, 23. "I'd just passed through a ravine and a big bomb crater when suddenly about 40 yards away I saw a VC. He was heading my way and looked surprised. I fired a burst from my automatic rifle and dove to the ground."

"Then I raised my head and saw two more VC, one had a steel helmet. I fired another burst and they disappeared into a trench."

"I've been here 10 months and fought the VC plenty, but those were the first ones I ever saw alive." Sgt. Marvin Chapman said: "All hell broke loose. Bullets flew in all directions. Grenades headed for us exploded in the trees."

"We radioed for help and lay there for an hour and a half, right under Charlie's guns."

Pte. Jerry Rippee said that when rescuers came up: "One Viet Cong got ready to throw a grenade at us. I shot him in the side and the grenade fell and didn't go off."

"A woman... she was old and had stringy hair... came crawling from a bunker to drag a VC away. I hit her straight."

With the company back together the enemy was held at bay. An air force helicopter, hovering 150 feet above the jungle floor, lowered a stretcher basket through a shaft in the thick foliage dug out by a B-52's bomb. Viet Cong bullets zipped past the helicopter and the dangling basket but failed to hit.

Republicans See Gains In November

By THOMAS J. POLEY
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON—GOP leaders predicted privately Monday that even without Viet Nam and inflation as issues, Republicans will gain at least 35 to 40 house seats in the November Congressional elections.

The reason is the reverse of the so-called Goldwater drag—the tide that swept dozens of Republican Congressmen to defeat in 1964. The Republican leaders believe this tide is swinging back their way.

They expect to get back most of the normally Republican votes that defected to President Johnson because of antipathy to Goldwater. The more realistic Democratic pros concede this.

HOPEFUL. However, the Republicans possibly too hopefully, anticipate more. They say they sense that a good many others who voted for Mr. Johnson will deliberately vote for Republican Congressional candidates this fall to prove their independence to themselves.

Lending at least some support to the GOP hopes is the fact that voters have been splitting tickets considerably more in recent elections, refusing to vote a straight party line.

In 1964, more than 40 Republican Congressmen lost by less than 5 per cent of the total vote in districts that Goldwater was losing by more than 10 per cent to the president. These are seats that the Republicans have every right to expect to win back this year.

Republican candidates got 42.6 per cent of the total vote cast for Congressmen in 1964.

In the process, they lost a net total of 36 seats. The GOP leaders say that Viet Nam, and the inflation resulting from the war's effect on the economy, will also be issues in the fall elections.

They believe voters are confused about the fighting, that they don't know why the United States is involved and that the war is therefore increasingly unpopular.

They believe they stand to benefit from this without Republican politicians making it a campaign issue.

MORSE SPEECH. Therefore, their present intention is to needle the Democrats over their division on the degree of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam, and to support Mr. Johnson's request for funds to conduct the war, particularly if the fighting escalates, as they fully expect.

A Senate speech last week by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), the administration's most vocal critic on Viet Nam, will be widely quoted by GOP speakers in an effort to embarrass the Democrats.

In his speech Morse said: "What this administration does not like to face up to—and the administration will hear about this between now and November—is that no Republican president sent any boy in uniform to South Viet Nam to die. American boys have been sent to Viet Nam only by Democratic presidents."

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator). Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Church Voice Proposed

ALGERS (Reuters) — A British Labor party peer says the South Viet Nam Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas, is prepared to form a broadly-based government that would include Roman Catholics and Buddhists, after peace talks. Lord Brockway said this emerged in a 45-minute meeting he had with Vo Cong Trung, chairman of the Liberation Front mission here. Brockway is chairman of the British Council for Peace in Viet Nam. The Front has one of its two missions in the non-Communist world here.

BOSTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Monday he expects more nations to join the United States in giving "tangible assistance" to South Viet Nam in its fight against Communism.

He told a Boston University audience that the U.S. has the full support of most of the free world for its course in Viet Nam.

"I know from my own contact that a great majority of the non-Communist governments understand and support what we are doing," he said.

As for peace prospects, Rusk said persistent U.S. efforts to bring the Communists to the negotiating table had been stalled by Hanoi and Peking. Even some Communist nations realize that it is not the U.S. which keeps the war going, he said. Rusk noted that some critics had labeled American peace terms almost as a demand for unconditional surrender. But, he said, "We are not asking the regime, or to surrender a single other side to change their acre or a single individual."

Panic When You Talk?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in social and business advancement and works like magic to give you poise, self confidence and greater popularity. According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances there are ways to make a good impression every time you talk. To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your request to: Conversation, 835 Diversely Parkway, Dept. 4983, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

City Thieves Busy

Thieves got $670 in cash and discarded $826 in cheques when they cracked the safe at Tye's Shell Service, 100 Esquimalt, Saturday night.

In other weekend break-ins, thieves failed to break open the safe at the Christian Reformed Church, 661 Agnes, when it contained $500, but stole an unknown amount of cash and liquor from the Pacific Club, 500 Fort.

Police said the safe at the service station had apparently been left unlocked.

The break-in was noticed by a police patrol Sunday morning. Thieves broke a window to get into the station and knocked the dial off the safe.

The safe door was removed and the cash and cheques taken. Sgt. Miller Bell found the cheques and a cash book on top of rocks at the rear of the station.

SET IN CONCRETE

The church safe was set in concrete and the thieves were unable to crack it.

The thieves entered through an unlocked basement door, Saanich police said.

Agile thieves scaled the fire escape at the Pacific Club to the third floor and then stood on a railing to get through an air vent.

WALLET EMPTIED

Liquor cabinets and cigarette machines were forced open, and receipts from two barnen were stolen from the main office.

Cash totalling $643 was in a wallet lost Saturday night by John S. Phillion, 10 Phillion Place.

Mr. Phillion told police he lost the wallet in either the 600-block Fort or 1800-block Douglas.

The wallet was found Sunday morning near Yates and Douglas. The money was missing.

A gold and diamond money clip worth about $70 and containing about $17 was stolen from Douglas Anderson's unlocked locker at the Crystal Gardens Sunday afternoon.

About $25 was stolen from a toy bank at 1970 Fort Saturday afternoon.

HONG KONG (AP)—China has placed 100,000 writers, performers, artists and musicians in manual jobs on farms, factories, mines and military units in the past 18 months, Peking's official People's Daily reports.

Go for action in the Austin 1100

The Austin 1100 photographed at high speed on a ploughed field near Barrie, Ontario.

Punishing 8-inch ruts, wheels a blur. You wonder... how does the Austin 1100 ride so level?

Read how the Austin 1100's revolutionary Hydrolastic suspension can give you a ride as smooth and comfortable as cars costing three times the price.

Suppose you took your car at high speed across a freshly ploughed field. You'd feel every jolt. Every rut. And chances are, you'd lose control of the car. But take the same field in the Austin 1100, and it just isn't the same field. No jarring bumps. No bucking and heaving. No problem.

That's BMC's revolutionary Hydrolastic suspension at work. It actually floats you over the bumps and ruts on a cushion of fluid. Teamed with front-wheel drive, Hydrolastic suspension can take the Austin 1100 through the toughest driving conditions you'll ever meet—safely, surely, smoothly. One more thing. There are no springs or shock absorbers in the Austin 1100—nothing to break down or replace. So you'll enjoy the Austin 1100's incredibly smooth ride completely carefree for the life of the car. See your BMC dealer for a demonstration. When you've driven the Austin 1100, you'll agree... nobody puts more into car-making than BMC.

Higher Grants to Simon Fraser

University Too Old?

Education Minister Peterson said Monday the University of Victoria does not receive per capita capital grants as high as Simon Fraser University because it was established some years ago.

He said in reply to a question from Alan Macfarlane (L. Oak Bay) during debate on the minister's salary vote that SFU is a "completely new and instant university."

It is not accurate to compare the two since because building costs at SFU are higher and Simon Fraser "is a completely new plant, starting from scratch."

JUST AS NEW

Mr. Macfarlane argued that the University of Victoria's Gordon Head campus is just as new as Simon Fraser, and that while the latter did not have to pay for the land it is situated on, Victoria is still faced with operating a split campus and paying for its new land.

He told the legislature the government should pay off the remaining debt left on the Gordon Head campus and equalize the capital grant ratio paid to both universities.

Earlier in the debate, Mr. Peterson told Mrs. Lois Haggan (NDP, Grand Forks-Greenwood) he agreed with her that the pupil-teacher ratio is too high and that there is a teacher shortage in the province.

RECRUITING

But the minister said steps are being taken to reduce the unbalanced ratio, and that "a very active recruitment campaign" is now taking place.

Indian MLA Frank Calder (NDP, Atlin) says he would be against establishment of a vocational school for Indians in northern B.C. — because he is against segregation.

Cyril Shelton (BC, Omineca) told the legislature there should be some type of industrial school which could teach Indian students with a Grade 8 education how to work in a pulp mill.

But Mr. Calder told the House: "As an integrationist, I must oppose any separate building that would create segregation in this province."

After discussion raged for seven hours, 10 minutes in the Legislature, Monday, over Mr. Peterson's salary estimates, the vote was withdrawn by Premier Bennett at adjournment, for further discussion starting at 3 p.m. today.

Earlier, David Barrett (NDP, Dewdney), waved a little red book in the air, and called across the House to Mr. Peterson:

NO "CANADIAN"

"I don't think our school books are being screened closely enough."

He was complaining that the Winston New Canadian Dictionary his nine-year-old son, Joe, had had to buy did not contain the word Canadian.

"It has 'Americans.' An American is defined. But if you turn further on, you don't see the word Canadian at all."

'Politicians Mistrusted'

Young people of today have a poor image of people in public life, and it's scaring them away," he said.

Making a plea for a broader base for social studies in schools, Ray Perrault (L. North Vancouver) told the House there is general mistrust by youngsters in schools and universities today of all politicians.

"I think it would be dreadful indeed if we were to lose young people of capacity simply because they believe public life is sordid and unworthy of them," he said.

At this juncture, an unidentified New Democratic Party member asked:

"I wonder what brought this on?"

It was an obvious reference to the political fracas raging in Ottawa between the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives over the Munsinger sex-security scandal.

Mr. Perrault urged Education Minister Peterson to try to set up a wider range of social studies, with particular emphasis on political education.

Mr. Peterson turned this away with the comment that provincial schools should not be made responsible for "upholding the image of members."

In debate ranging around education estimates, Cyril Shelton (SC, Omineca) told members he felt students living in outlying areas stood a smaller chance of going on to universities than those living in urban areas.

Checking over the list of graduates from University of B.C. from his own riding in 1964, Mr. Shelton said he had found only two.

Litterbugs Warned By Saanich

Saanich public works committee declared war on litterbugs Monday night.

Coun. William Noel told the committee that garbage is being thrown from cars, particularly in the Mount Douglas Park area.

The committee agreed to ask Saanich residents seeing garbage being dumped from cars to take the licence numbers and telephone the police.

Saanich asked the city Monday to set a firm price on Gorge Park, so that negotiations can be started to buy it.

Saanich submitted a proposal to buy the land last year but, according to Coun. Ed Lam, "it got bogged down and we heard no more about it."

Global Television Seen as Menace

LONDON (Reuters) — Global television relayed by Soviet and American satellites could be used as a political instrument, threatening the independence of some countries and causing far-reaching changes in world relations, an influential European group warned Monday.

The Eurospace organization warning came three days after an announcement that Britain and other European countries joined a United States-dominated consortium called Intelsat to launch a system of world-spanning communications satellites by 1968. Eurospace, made up of 180 members of European industry engaged in aerospace work, published a memorandum here calling for urgent action to make sure that Europe plays its own major role in space before it is too late.

Intelsat's space communications system provides at present for the use of Early Bird-type satellites which Eurospace said are not powerful enough to have noteworthy political or economic repercussions.

But the situation would change radically from the moment much more communication satellites are put into use, the Eurospace memorandum declared.

Once ordinary home television sets are able to pick up programs from these satellites directly "the national independence of developed countries without similar means of expression might be threatened by this persuasive new weapon." Britain and some other European countries have invested $60,000,000 for 29 per cent control of Intelsat.

'I Dug Into Snow'

Pilot Describes Alaska Ordeal

ANCHORAGE (AP) — A U.S. Air Force pilot lost in the Alaska wilderness for 51 hours says he was confident of rescue while he waged a battle for survival in temperatures ranging down to 45 degrees below zero.

Capt. Roy Macdonald, who bailed out of his F-106 fighter-interceptor jet after a collision over central Alaska Thursday, said his only concern was to keep calm.

"I was concerned about my safety in that weather," Macdonald said. "But I knew I could last long enough I would be rescued."

The 32-year-old pilot of the 1st Fighter Wing at Selfridge, Mich., Air Force Base, described the hours before rescue by an air force helicopter after he arrived at Elmendorf Air Force Base here.

"I landed a little off a ridge," he said. "There were trees about 100 yards down and I went into that area to make a camp." He first spread out his orange and white parachute on the ridge so it could be seen from the air.

"I burrowed a place in the snow—to get out of the wind."

he said. "I was comfortable, but his parachute were spotted by a crewman aboard a C-123."

Snow covered the ground and during his waiting period there were continuous snow flurries.

Macdonald said he relied on the parachute survival pack for food, bedding, and his hope for rescue. When his radio signaling device ceased to function a few hours after he was on the ground, he used flares in attempts to attract searching aircraft.

Saturday afternoon, one of Macdonald's flare signals and his parachute were spotted by a crewman aboard a C-123.

The aircraft radioed a helicopter which reached him five minutes later. He was flown to Galena, an air force station, where a flight surgeon pronounced him in "beautiful shape."

Macdonald had been the subject of an intensive search over a 4,900-square-mile area by 22 military and civilian aircraft after his plane collided with a T-33 jet trainer. The pilot of the trainer, Maj. Vincent Hooper of Tyrone, Pa., landed his plane safely.

Student Uprisings Feared on Canadian Campuses

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—Student demonstrations similar to those which rocked the University of California, Berkeley, in 1964-65 may occur in Canada if students are not given a greater role in university administration, says a report on Canadian university government.

The report was released Monday by its sponsors, the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada and the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

It was written by Sir James Duff, formerly vice-chancellor of the University of Durham in England, and Professor Robert Berdahl, a political scientist and specialist in university government at San Francisco State College.

They made a two-year study of 35 Canadian universities and colleges before producing the 30,000-word report. The study was financed by a $50,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

They recommended student representation on both university boards and senates and call for closer co-operation between these two bodies and the faculties of the universities.

"Student discontent in other countries and testimony that we heard in Canada both point to the probability of growing student demands for participation in university government; and those presidents, boards, and senates who are insensitive to their grievances may find student negotiating tactics becoming increasingly unpalatable."

The report warns "some variations of the Berkeley disturbances may possibly occur in Canada during the coming years."

It says the issue is not whether to welcome or stifle this new wave of student sentiment, but rather how to develop channels into which it can flow constructively.

Tensions existed at the universities due to flaws in their current systems of government, but this was not a situation peculiar to Canadian universities. Nor was it necessary to deplore the existence of these tensions.

"A university totally free from tensions would be totally lifeless. In a few universities, however, tensions seemed dangerously severe."

One of the major reasons given for the tensions was the ineffectiveness of most Canadian university senates.

The bodies, which the report says should be the "central education forum" of the university, were often little more than "rubber stamps" for the boards of governors.

"We have formed the firm opinion that the ineffectiveness of senates is the major cause of the tension and disharmony that exists today, not in all but in far too many Canadian universities."

The report recommends the senate should be composed of at least three faculty members, except for a number of representatives from the boards of governors and one or more students.

The boards should have at least three faculty members, but faculty representation should not be more than 25 per cent of each board. Student representation on boards of governors would consist of one faculty member who would be elected by the students.

"There will undoubtedly be times when it will prove embarrassing to have students present while faculty and administration are 'washing the university's dirty linen' in the senate or on its committees."

But students, under the present regime, heard "distorted versions of these unpleasantnesses" and their reactions to them were much more likely to be constructive if they were made realistically aware of the problems involved.

"Just as we have urged administrators not to judge faculty potential for responsible participation in university government by the occasional petulance which professors display when systematically kept in ignorance, so we suggest that students will respond with unsuspected maturity when treated as adults."

The report says faculty members now are often excluded from membership on boards of governors and that senates frequently draw a large number of their members from the university's administrators, alumni representatives and appointees of the provincial government.

Simulated Flood

Prince George To Provide Defence Test

A flood disaster lasting two weeks is scheduled to hit Prince George Thursday.

Preparations for it began Monday in the basement of the Mount Newton High School.

Here, 38 elected representatives and civil defence co-ordinators of B.C. municipalities are learning the steps to be taken if the Prince George disaster were real, and for any other peacetime disaster, for that matter.

The first three days of the course, they are listening to specialists in emergency planning—police, fire officers, doctors, welfare officials.

Afterward, they divide themselves into groups to resolve the problems that have been raised, using reference books when necessary.

The fourth day is when the flood hits. There may be a hundred problems for them to solve unaided: how the municipality should declare a state of emergency (through sitting of council), how it would go about getting aid, problems of health and welfare, problems of getting information to the public.

NOT ALONE

Prince George will not take the brunt of the simulated floods alone. Neighboring municipalities will also be affected.

Robert Wilcock, director of training for the B.C. government civil defence division, said it was intended the course should cover all the problems raised in recent Canadian and U.S. disasters.

It is the second of a series of three courses arranged by the provincial government, aimed at creating preparedness for the eventuality of a disaster.

The first, in January, was for civil defence and emergency service workers only. This one is specifically aimed at the men elected to run a municipality.

Blast at B.C., Ottawa

'Boorish' Politicking Disgusts Curtis

Reeve Hugh Curtis blasted the antics of federal and provincial politicians Monday night.

"I'm certain you share with me increasing concern, and disgust over the calibre of debate which is far too often in evidence in both our provincial house and the once proud House of Commons in Ottawa," the Saanich Reeve told members of the Douglas Rotary Club.

"In both houses, without pointing a finger at any particular political group, the proceedings surely leave us with a feeling of shame and disappointment," he said.

The Reeve told the Rotarians he could not believe such "continued boorish behavior" on the part of many of the provincial and federal elected representatives was either necessary or constructive.

"When a group of school students on a tour of the legislative buildings in our own capital city are exposed to such childishness, one cannot help but wonder at the wisdom of conducting such tours for supposed education and enlightenment of our youth in the ways of democracy," Reeve Curtis said.

He noted that most of his municipality's problems appear to be involved with the relationship with the provincial government.

He said he was not referring to the party in power, but rather the government of B.C.

as it exists today—the elected members of the Crown, deputies, and senior civil servants, all of whom form or influence government policy, the Reeve said.

Civic governments experience most difficulty with the senior government in the field of social services, he said. The premier and ministers of education, municipal affairs and health, say that the B.C. municipalities are better off than those in other provinces, he said.

"It is possible, I say, but there is a wealth of material gathered over the years by cities, municipalities, the UBCM, and other groups to indicate the situation may not be as rosy as our government would have us believe," he said.

He called for a committee of the legislature, or a royal commission, or some other responsible body to review all the questions and delve into the entire situation and bring in a comprehensive and informed opinion.

"Otherwise the dispute can go on for years with one side claiming all is well, and the other expressing the view that matters couldn't be worse," he said.

"Surely there is a real need for a formula," he added. The Reeve also told the meeting that the Elk-Beaver Lake water-rights question needed more consideration and discussion before an accurate opinion could be formed.

Reeve Helps Launch Saanich Meal Service

Province Refuses Moratorium On Water Law

The provincial government Monday flatly refused a one-year moratorium on legislation which would strip the district of its water rights.

Water Resources Minister Williston told a deputation of Saanich and Victoria officials, including Mayor Toone and Reeve Curtis, that the government would be happy to sit down and talk the whole matter over, but only after the bill, which has had its first reading in the legislature, was passed.

He did say, according to Mayor Toone, that the bill was the type which might not come into effect for a year or 18 months.

Mr. Williston said later Monday that he had assured municipal leaders the government would not take over water resources here until a number of technical problems were ironed out.

DEFINITE POLICY
"It is a definitely enunciated provincial policy of how the water shall be administered."

After the bill is passed, the water resources department will have to conduct studies to find out how much water is available for domestic consumption from Elk-Beaver Lake, he said.

WATER MAIN
Mr. Williston said he thought the Greater Victoria Water Board would eventually have to install a water main through the Saanich Peninsula because

Victoria Loses On Recreation

All three city-owned recreation facilities—Memorial Arena, Crystal Garden and McPherson Playhouse—lost money last year but, in the case of the arena, the loss was calculated after $30,500 worth of improvements were paid for.

It was the first year the three institutions had come under one head, the Recreation and Community Services Committee of city council, and one director, J. B. Morgan, who submitted his first annual report at a meeting of the committee Monday.

Memorial Arena was previously operated by a commission, but the Crystal Garden was taken over from the Canadian Pacific Railway at the beginning of 1965 and McPherson Playhouse after a period of vaill under city-appointed management. Overall deficit at the Playhouse for the year was $60,199, which was about $4,000 less than anticipated.

However, the various events in the theatre drew a total of 90,434 patrons. Professional hockey was responsible for a large chunk of the Memorial Arena revenue in 1965, bringing in more than $33,000. Public skating was down and inter-city lacrosse experienced one of its worst years financially and from a spectator standpoint.

IMPROVEMENTS
The arena took in more than $265,000 and expenditures exceeded this by $17,000. However, out of revenue, improvements worth $30,500 were paid for, so the facility was reckoned to have lost $13,000.

Activities at the arena drew 500,000 people in 1965, an increase of more than 180,000 over 1964.

The deficit at the Crystal Garden was about $7,000, the report said. Most of the revenue was spent on maintenance for the decrepit building. Earlier in the meeting it was decided to recommend to council that swimming admission charges be reduced to 40 cents from 55 for students and 30 cents from 40 for children.

Mr. Bompas was riding a bicycle. The car was driven by Victor Bell, 1037 Craigdorch. Joanne Elliott, 12 of 1254 Montrose, and Marie Adams, 1294 Montrose, were simultaneously in collision with a car at Hillside and Higgins.

Both were treated and released from hospital.

Centennial Post Goes to Gosley

Jerry Gosley, producer of the popular Smile Show, was chosen centennial co-ordinator Monday from a field of eight applicants.

Mr. Gosley, who will be paid $750 a month plus $50 monthly expenses, starts the new job April 1.

"My friends tell me I've put my neck in a noose and I'll be shoved around," he said Monday. "But I'm looking forward to two years of fun."

KNOWS MEMBERS
"I know most of the committee members personally and expect to find them co-operative."

Mr. Gosley, who produced Royal Air Force shows during the Second World War, immigrated to Canada in 1947.

The Smile Show originated as a services program 25 years ago.

Anxious to get the show on the road, Mr. Gosley says: "We've fiddled around long enough, let's get going."

LOCAL PAGEANT
One of his main projects may be a pageant—a local-talent one. He said he saw both the 1958 pageant staged by Victoria school children and the 1962 professional edition.

Sudbury Nears Tow's End

The Victoria-based deep-sea tug Sudbury II and her engine-troubled tow, the Greek freighter Leokipos, are due at First Narrows in Vancouver harbor at 7 a.m. today.

The tug rushed to the freighter's rescue late Saturday night off Tofino.

Three Hurt In Accidents

Three persons were injured in car accidents Monday.

Alfred Bompas, 54, address unknown, is in fairly good condition in Jubilee Hospital after being in collision with a car at Hillside and Springdale.

Mr. Bompas was riding a bicycle. The car was driven by Victor Bell, 1037 Craigdorch. Joanne Elliott, 12 of 1254 Montrose, and Marie Adams, 1294 Montrose, were simultaneously in collision with a car at Hillside and Higgins.

Both were treated and released from hospital.

Reporters Find Bans Oppressive

By A. H. MURPHY

It would have been an open-and-shut case had the press acceded to the demands of the Greater Victoria Centennial Society which met Monday in City Hall.

Newspapermen were free to attend the meeting only on the condition that they consent to banishment for what appeared to be the only interesting parts.

Principal purpose of the whole effort was to choose a co-ordinator for the area's centennial program—but for that part of the meeting the press was banned.

'NOT PROPER'
Society chairman A. R. Meba said that "personal matters" would be discussed at that time and that it was "not proper" for reporters to be present during the selection.

They were free to listen in on discussions of such agenda topics as B.C. Centennial Caravan 1966 (now in the city), "Centennial Blazer, Skirts and Slacks."

They passed up the whole meeting.

Give More Students Chance, University's Aim

By BILL STAVDAL

"Judge us by our finished product, not our raw material."

That's the reply of University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor to one criticism of his three-year-old campus: that the entrance requirement is too low.

Last fall the University of British Columbia raised its requirement to a 60-per-cent average in Grade 12, or recommendation. Simon Fraser University opened its doors with the same regulation.

But at the University of Victoria, all a prospective student needs is a junior matriculation pass, which can be as low as a 50-per-cent average.

One member of the faculty recently muttered privately that the comparatively low-entrance requirement put the university in danger of becoming "an intellectual garbage can."

The suggestion is that mediocre high school students who can't make it into the two Mainland universities will head for Victoria.

Dr. Taylor's answers are both hard-headed and philosophical.

"Our standards for graduation are as high as any in Western Canada," he says. "Our grads are accepted in graduate schools anywhere."

He pointed out that the University of Victoria just won four of the prized Woodrow Wilson Fellowships for graduate study, the closest U.S. equivalent of the Rhodes Scholarship.

Per capita, this campus won twice as many as UBC. Dr. Taylor says the administration was wary last fall that the entrance level here might pull poor students.

"Normally we get about 20 per cent of our students from the Mainland. In September we looked for an undue influx from the Mainland, but it didn't happen."

"If it had, we would have taken steps."

Less pragmatically, Dr. Taylor believes that "we have an obligation to these people (the 50-60-per-centers)."

"People who have got through Grade 12 should have an opportunity to get into university so they can find out whether they have the ability to make it."

Vancouver has a junior college where a so-so student can try higher education and transfer to university if he catches fire. But there is no such facility on the Island.

Some students who do poorly in high school burst forth in campus climate, Dr. Taylor observed.

"Because we have smaller undergraduate classes than other universities, the student with a 50-60-per-cent matriculation average has a better chance of getting through."

The president agrees that his university is faced with a job of weeding out poor students which the Mainland campuses greatly reduce by high entrance standards.

"It's a price democracy should pay in order to make certain that people of yet undiscovered potential get their chance."

"I'm sure the gain in discovering these people outweighs any losses."

"And anyway, the person who comes here and fails is a better person for having been here."

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore of 1344 Beach Drive celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently. They were married in Pierson, Manitoba and came to Victoria 11 years ago. Their only son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Chris Moore entertained at an afternoon reception at the Victoria Golf Club in their honor. The Moore's have five grandchildren.—(Campbell Studio).

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Victorians who have signed the register at British Columbia House in London during the past week are Mrs. S. Shenderson Wilks, Mr. John A. Lort and Mr. Hamish Thoms. Miss Ada A. Hoffman of Ganges has also called at B.C. House.

Engagement

The engagement is announced of Catherine Anne (Candy) Southern, only daughter of Mr. Charles Southern, 908 Sioux Place and the late Mrs. Southern, and Mr. Robert L. Peden, son of Mrs. B. Peden, 2845 Rockwell Avenue and the late Mr. Peden.

Bus Holds Gifts

Mrs. T. Wilkinson entertained at her home, 1276 Montrose Avenue, with a surprise shower to honor Miss Carol Pack whose marriage to Mr. Rodney Stevens takes place, March 18. The bride-elect and Mrs. P. Stevens, mother of the groom were the recipients of carnation corsages.

The gifts were presented in a model bus depicting groom-elect's occupation, with four-year-old Lloyd Pack, nephew of the bride, attired as the driver. Guests enjoyed games and musical entertainment provided by Mr. and Mrs. T. Wilkinson and their seven children.

Refreshments were served from a decorated table centred with a heart-shaped shower cake made by Miss Emily Philpott. Guests were Mrs. W. Pack, mother of the bride, Mrs. B. Shaw, Mrs. M. Anderson, Mrs. J. Donald, Mrs. W. Gates, Mrs. D. Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. A. Vickers, Mrs. P. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. P. Grocott, Mr. and Mrs. W. Cuth, Mrs. M. Galt, Mrs. A. Schroeder, Miss Emily Philpott, Miss Viola Penner, Mrs. F. Marston, Miss Margaret Vickers, Miss Cathy Farmer, Miss Catherine Corrigan, Mr. and Mrs. G. McCutcheon, Miss Esther Stevens, Miss Naomi Stevens and Mr. Rodney Stevens.

The regular meeting of the VON was held recently at Spencer House, with Mr. J. Barham in the chair. A moment's silence was observed in memory of Mrs. J. M. Cameron, a valued member of the Board of Directors for 30 years.

Miss E. Riddell, District Director, reported 426 patients admitted during January and February, a slight increase over last year. These were busy months, with 35 night calls, some for patients who needed a second visit in the acute stage of their illness. Hospital referrals totalled 165 for the two months from Royal Jubilee, St. Joseph's and Gorge Road Hospitals.

Miss B. Short had 15 Health Counselling Sessions at the Silver Threads Service Centre and a series of prenatal classes. Miss Riddell told of the visits to the Kwanis Villa, where 18 patients were visited by Mrs. Jean McKenzie, under the supervision of Mrs. Sylvia Jobst.

VON Car Costs Down

The Consultant Physiotherapist made 22 assessment visits with the nurse. Housekeeping service was given to two families and there were 248 visits made by the Practical Nurse.

Post graduate students from

UBC and undergraduates from the local schools of nursing, worked with the nurses during these months. A letter was read from the Community Chest and they approved the VON allotment. The car report was given by Mr. Price in the absence of Mr. J. C. Cox, stated that the running costs for the cars was the lowest for two years as a result of the change to smaller cars.

The 68th annual general meeting.

The meeting ended with a reminder to the Board and all Victoria, of the rummage sale on Saturday, March 26 at 9:30 a.m. in the Old Victoria Ballroom.

School Tea Raises $500

A total of $500 was realized at tea at Willows School auditorium.

Stalls of home baking, candy, and plants and flowers were convened by Mrs. Ivy Cooper, Mrs. Shirley Forbes and Mrs. Francis Williams. Mrs. Gwen Phillips was in charge of sale of ice cream. Mrs. M. O. L. Hill arranged attractive floral centrepieces.

Arrangements of spring flowers decorated St. Alban's Anglican Church when Rev. F. W. Hayes performed the double ceremony uniting the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brayshaw and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Broad. Mr. Brayshaw gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. Louis Guay was matron of honor for her sister, and bridesmaid was Miss Marilyn Mowatt. They wore identical gowns of crepe in blue and rose respectively, fashioned on Empire lines. Their matching headpieces were trimmed with flowers and veils. They carried cascade bouquets of carnations in blue and rose in opposite colors to their gowns.

Mr. Tom Garlat was best man, and Mr. Louis Guay ushered guests to their pews. Miss Lorna Hawkins of Kimberley, the bride's cousin, played the bridal march, and also played at a reception following the ceremony.

Mr. Brayshaw of Vancouver proposed the toast to his niece, and Mr. Bob Smith was master of ceremonies.

A three-piece ensemble of rose tweed was worn by the new Mrs. Broad as the couple left on their wedding trip. The newlyweds plan to make their home at 267 Sims Avenue.

Harding Carpets of Acrilan® are too Plush for words. Ask the cat who owns one.

The new Westwood Carpet by Harding is so plush that every step you take is an exercise in luxury.

You feel as though you're walking on velvet. Actually you're walking on rows and rows of Acrilan tufts closely packed together. This gives the carpet a lush, shady, rich finish that looks like velvet. Makes it frankly elegant.

And look at the pile! It's almost twice as thick as ordinary carpets. This extra thickness makes a big difference. You literally sink into the pile. In fact it's so deep and dense you can even see faint footprints when you walk on it. This adds interest and character to the carpet. It's the sign of true carpet luxury. You can use this carpet confidently with traditional furniture. Modern furniture. You can use it wall-to-wall or as a room size rug that says a lot of nice things about your good taste. Beautifully.

This big red "A" stands for Acrilan. Acrilan is an Acrylic fibre. It's one of the things that make Harding plush carpets great.

Harding carpets made from Acrilan are ideal for small families. Big families with lots of kids. For just about anyone who wants a carpet that's both luxurious and practical. And with Acrilan there's no need to worry about moths, mildew and allergies. Ever.

Westwood comes in a dozen colours. Wonderful exciting colours that make a room come alive. Colours like Cardinal Red and Cathedral Blue. Willow Green. Baltic Turquoise. Every colour is a true rich tone because Acrilan dyes with exceptional ease.

Westwood has the deep-down luxury of expensive imported carpets. What's the difference then? The price. A room-size 9' x 12' rug in Westwood costs about $200.00.

Harding makes another plush carpet of Acrilan. It's called Sherwood. It's in the same Harding tradition as Westwood. It has a nubbier more casually elegant look. And Sherwood is available in 15 decorator colours. Oh, yes it costs $13.95 per sq. yard. This makes a 9' x 12' rug less than $175.00.

Delay Bid Lost In Dupuis Influence Trial

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—The trial of Yvon Dupuis on charges of influence peddling continues here today before Mr. Justice Evender Veilleux, at the criminal assizes of Court of Queen's Bench.

Twelve jurors were selected Monday, opening day of the trial. Mr. Veilleux also rejected a bid for a postponement by Mr. Dupuis' lawyer.

Paul Martineau said he took over the defence of the former federal cabinet minister Sunday and had not yet had time to study the case. He asked—in vain—for a postponement of 10 to 15 days.

DROPS OUT

Mr. Dupuis' former counsel, Raymond Daoust of Montreal, told Mr. Dupuis he had to drop the defence because he must keep himself available for the trial of Raymond Denis in Ottawa.

Prosecutor Jean-Guy Blanchette argued the trial should not be delayed because of complications springing from the fact that the trial was transferred here from St. John's district.

The charges against Mr. Dupuis resulted from unsuccessful attempts to obtain a racetrack charter from the Quebec government for a group in St. Jean-Iberville — Monteville constituency.

Mr. Dupuis represented the constituency until the general election Nov. 8, running as an independent Liberal, he was defeated.

Canadian Ships Suggested

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill that would make it illegal for any but Canadian-registered ships to move freight or passengers between ports within Canada was introduced in the Commons Monday by Frank Howard (NDP—Sheena).

Mr. Howard said it would boost the business of Canadian vessels in the coasting trade and also spur the Canadian ship-building industry.

The bill was given routine first reading and placed at the end of a list of 124 private members' bills awaiting debate in the limited time set aside for such bills.

David Barrett (NDP, Dewdney) specifically criticized the minister for what he termed inadequate financing of educational research.

He pointed out that of the total provincial educational budget of $168,000,000, only $35,000 had been set aside for research, and that there were only three research officers in the province.

SCHOOLS HELPED

"I would like to see at least 25 research officers," he said. Mr. Peterson replied that Mr.

Hotelman Charged In Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Arthur Cruikshank, 54, was charged Monday with non-capital murder in the death of Arnold Harry Hazel of Vancouver.

Hazel was found injured outside the beer parlor of the Stanley Hotel of which Cruikshank is part owner. He was operated on for head injuries, but died March 5 without regaining consciousness.

The victim was said to have received the head injuries while being evicted from the beer parlor.

This is only half the story...

the other half begins in vineyards uniquely favored by soil and climate, where the Andrea's vines of old world heritage, French Columbar, Golden Chasselas and Johannesburg Riesling are tended by master vintagers. After careful pressing of the choicest grapes, the new-born wine is deposited in oaken casks to age and mellow naturally. Every unhurried step, from the ripening of the grapes to the final bottling, is attended by experts who are dedicated to producing fine wine.

This is the half of the story most people never know, but without it, there couldn't be a happy ending.

Canadians Visit Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI)—A 30-member trade and goodwill mission from Vancouver, B.C., began a five-day visit to Ethiopia Monday.

The mission was led by Sidney W. Welsh, president of Fred Welsh and Sons, Ltd.

The group was scheduled to hold talks with Ethiopian officials on the possibilities of expanding trade between Ethiopia and Canada.

Barrett had failed to take into account the money granted by the provincial government to "other research agencies" such as the school districts themselves.

Mr. Barrett commented to the minister that "one only needs to look across the border" to see that a university education can be obtained cheaper.

"EXAMPLE"

"I'm an example myself," he quipped, "and now I'm back in B.C. to see if I can't do something about reforming our own educational system here."

Mr. Squire told the minister he was concerned that education at university should be so expensive, where it had been "free" up to grade 12 or 13.

"Apparently we can afford to look after all those youngsters as far as Grade 12 or 13. The onus is on government."

ABILITY — MONEY

"But suddenly, once they've reached that point, the onus reverts to the student himself — somehow to find $500 or so a year to pay his tuition fees."

"Up to Grade 12 or 13, it's a question of a student's ability to get ahead; after Grade 13, it's a question of money," he said.

Britons Over-Eating

LONDON (CP)—Britons, long noted for their huge consumption of candies, are on the way to becoming a nation of "fatties," says a Liverpool doctor who has compiled an "obesity file" on his patients during the last 10 years.

There are more overweight children than ever before, says Dr. Robert Kemp, writing in the medical journal Practitioner. He attributes the cause to heavy consumption of bread, potatoes, sugar, candy and beer.

"The fat person loses his ability to cope with the sugar and starch-laden menus so usual today."

Of 684 patients treated for obesity since 1956, Dr. Kemp has been successful in 238 cases with a diet low in sugar and starch.

Dr. Kemp says children account for 40 per cent of the obesity cases.

Crash Due To Lightning?

JAMMU, Kashmir (CP)—Lightning may have struck the Indian Airlines plane that crashed in the mountain near Banihal Pass Feb. 7, aviation experts said Sunday. The 37 persons aboard the plane died when it went down in stormy weather.

Other main factors causing overweight are linked with pregnancy. Inactivity after the age of 40, coupled with failure to adjust food intake, largely accounts for overweight in middle life.

Highland Wedding National Favorite

LONDON (Reuters)—Highland Wedding, owned jointly by Toronto stockbroker Charles Burns and Thomas McKoy Jr. of the United States, was made a 6-to-1 favorite for the March 26 Grand National by a leading London bookmaker after being defeated narrowly in a steeply-chase race at Kempton Park near here Saturday.

Lifts Faces Out of Lines and Wrinkles

Most mothers, of any age, now can know the thrill of a 2nd Debut by letting an amazing discovery lift their faces out of the aging mass of lines and wrinkles at home the new way. It's the Winkless Discovery called CEF 800 and 1200 double strength blended into the new skin lotion called 2nd Debut. Moisture is carried under the wrinkled skin layers to push up and out. Once again skin is smooth, soft and so much younger looking. Most mothers call it a 2nd Debut. Most drug and department stores feature 2nd Debut. Results are almost immediate.

NOTICE OF POLL EXTENSION OF BOUNDARIES Corporation of the Township of Esquimalt

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given pursuant to a directive of the Minister of Municipal Affairs under the provisions of section 21 of the Municipal Act, that a poll shall be held in the CHATHAM FLOWER AUTO COURT, 181 Island Highway, Victoria, B.C., on SATURDAY, March 26th, 1966, between the hours of 8 o'clock in the forenoon and 8 o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of submitting the question of inclusion within the Municipality of the lands contained within the area described below.

ALL that area bounded on the northeast side by the centre line of the Gorge Waters; on the southeast side by the present boundary of the Township of Esquimalt; on the southwest side by the Songhees and Esquimalt Indian Reserves and Esquimalt Harbor; and on the northwest side by the section line dividing Section Two from Section Three, Esquimalt District, which said area is shown upon a plan posted on the notice board in the Esquimalt Municipal Hall, 1229 Esquimalt Road, Esquimalt, B.C., and at the Standard Service Station, 1518 Admirals Road.

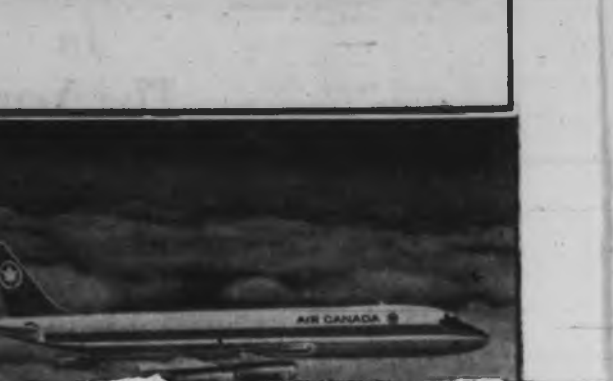

The persons entitled to vote at this poll are all persons who are British subjects of the full age of twenty-one years who and corporations which are owners of real property within the area proposed to be incorporated.

A corporation shall not vote except by its duly authorized agent, whose authority on that behalf shall be filed with the Returning Officer. Such agent shall be a resident of the Province of British Columbia and a British subject of the full age of twenty-one years.

GIVEN under my hands this 16th day of March, 1966.

A. SPIER, Returning Officer.

Nickel stainless steel coffee pots are manufactured by Cory, General Electric, General Steel Wares, Philips, West Bend and Westinghouse

Give your coffee a break

Stained coffee pots are sometimes hard to clean; and those stains affect the flavour of good coffee. But a nickel stainless steel coffee pot is highly resistant to stains, tarnish and corrosion. It is easy to clean and keep clean; and it keeps its beauty year after year. No wonder coffee pots, and many other household products, are made of nickel stainless steel. And in all of them, nickel's contribution is quality.

Fake Medal, Wild Story Bring Brief 'High Life'

MOSCOW — Georgy Maslennikov, a fireman in Baku, lived it up for six months, thanks to a fake medal and some poppycock about exploits during the Second World War.

He got off to a running start by conferring on himself the highest Soviet award, Hero of the Soviet Union. To justify the decoration, he concocted a hair-raising account of bravery.

Local officials swallowed the story and Georgy began to cash in:

He rode free on buses, street cars and other public conveyances.

He got tickets to movie theatres without standing in line.

He was wined, dined and otherwise honored by the citizens of Baku.

Then the law moved in. Rumormongers through his apartment, police found a clock, keys, money, machine parts, blank certificates of merit for outstanding work and some linoleum from a local factory—all stolen.

What happened to Georgy is not known.

LONDON — Operator of a cosmetics shop in London's Mayfair district, Eliza Sherif, 33, is in the race for a seat in the House of Commons as an Independent Liberal, running against Labor's Michael Stewart, Britain's foreign secretary.

"Woman's place in society" is one of her platform planks.

HOLLYWOOD — Philosophy of comedian Joey Bishop is to laugh off misfortune, not gripe about it. That's what he did when he suffered a slipped disc and pinched nerve that put him in hospital last summer.

Now he's back at work, playing an Indian in Texas Across the River, with Dean Martin and Alain Delon.

DA NANG, Viet Nam — Actress Ann-Margaret, perspiration trickling down her pretty cheeks, jerked and gyrated around the stage under a broiling hot sun with Marine Sgt. Claitor Steward, Anaheim, Calif., while 6,000 other beachgoers stomped their feet, clapped and cheered. It was part of the show she put on for the marines at an enclave outside of Da Nang called Hill 37.

LONDON — Pressure of previous commitments has led Charlie Chaplin and the two stars of his film A Countess from Hong Kong—Sophia Loren and Marlon Brando—to send regrets to invitations to meet Queen Elizabeth at a royal film performance.

ROME — Back into Rome have come Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, the latter bearded for his part in The Taming of the Shrew. The couple, whose widely-publicized romance began here some years ago, was again greeted by CHARTRES, France — Discovery of a second cache of Claude Monet paintings, possibly worth $2,000,000, was reported here. The 48 paintings are in addition to a secret hoard of 32 canvases discovered last month. All were willed to the French Fine Arts Academy.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Lee Marbitz, St. Louis' much-travelled confectioner who was both lawyer and author, has died at 103 of an apparent heart attack while recovering from a hip fracture suffered March 15. Marbitz completed his 70th annual trip abroad shortly before his birthday last Dec. 23.

HORSHAM, England — Henry Russell Harmer, 96, internationally known stamp dealer, has died. He founded the stamp auctioneering firm of H. R. Harmer of Bond Street in 1918. An authority on classic stamps, he specialized in detecting forgeries.

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast — Ghana's deposed president Kwame Nkrumah appealed to his countrymen to revolt against the military regime established after a Feb. 24 coup.

HAVANA — Prime Minister Fidel Castro accused a French diplomat of telling obscene stories at an embassy party and declared: "We have to put an end to these contacts with the capitalist bourgeois world, with these corruptive tendencies."

HONG KONG — Chester Rowling, Canadian diplomat who made a three-day visit to Hong Kong in late February, is due to leave at once for Canada. Rowling was not available for comment on reports that he had talks with North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong and that he delivered a message from Prime Minister Pearson.

HOUSTON, Tex. — The grand dragon of the white supremacist Ku Klux Klan in Texas, Boyce McPhail, has resigned, declaring the organization is "best on violence." A new Klan head was elected but McPhail refused to identify him.

VANCOUVER — Mayor Rattle said he has received a certified check for $2,000 from a Vancouver resident who received social assistance during the depression. "He has requested that his name not be released," the mayor said.

CHERTSEY, England — Charles Lewis took his daily dawn swim in the icy Thames River on his 82nd birthday. Lewis, who says he plans to live forever, has crawled through the river every morning for the last 40 years.

VANCOUVER — The new $14,000,000 Pacific Press Building was officially opened by British Columbia Lieutenant Governor Peckles. The four-story building is the home of the Sun and the Province, and of the Vancouver bureau of The Canadian Press.

EDMONTON — Norman Lesandre, 19, of Edmonton, was charged with capital murder in the fatal beating of 100-year-old Mrs. Madeline Lemire, one of two Edmonton residents fatally beaten during the weekend. Ralph Alex, 30, of Edmonton, was charged with non-capital murder in the death of Louis Kelsie, 50, night desk clerk at the Commercial Hotel.

LONDON — British disarmament minister Lord Chalfont warned that in 15 years Communist China could build enough nuclear strength to change the whole balance of power in the world. He called for urgent efforts toward world nuclear disarmament.

SALZGITTER, West Germany — A six-year-old boy who was brought back to life after clinically dying in January, has finally died. Axel Lerschmeyer fell through the ice on a frozen pond in January and was brought out apparently dead. But doctors managed his heart and for two months he lived without regaining consciousness until finally dying.

Graduate School Adds Psychology

By BILL STAVDAL

The University of Victoria has added psychology to its program of graduate studies which starts next fall, president Malcolm Taylor announced Monday.

Addition of psychology makes a total of eight fields in which graduate students will be able to obtain masters' and doctors' degrees.

It was announced earlier that the university would offer master of arts degrees in education, geography, history and linguistics.

Master of science degrees will be available in biology, chemistry and physics, as well as psychology.

Programs leading to the doctoral degree will be offered in certain areas of biology, chemistry, physics and psychology.

Dr. Taylor said that inquiries from prospective students had already been received from Great Britain, Formosa, Australia and all across Canada.

He called it "an encouraging sign." Initial enrolment in the graduate school is expected to be about 50, he said.

"The establishment of graduate studies within any university strengthens that university as a whole. Opportunities for work with advanced students will give our present faculty new incentives, and attract other outstanding professors," said Dr. Taylor in a prepared statement.

"The addition of such newcomers will enrich our present strong undergraduate program as well," he said.

Dr. Taylor rejected suggestions voiced by some faculty members and students that the graduate school would draw on resources needed by undergraduates, and that the university ought to concentrate on building up its undergraduate facilities.

Top priority is being given at the university to two undergraduate departments—political science and economics—which are under-staffed, said the president.

He said the university had offered a four-year undergraduate program for six years now, and was ready to go on to graduate studies.

"And I don't think you can distinguish between resources for graduates and undergraduates," he added.

Another factor, he said, was that top-quality faculty members wanted to work with graduate students. If they didn't get the opportunity they weren't as apt to stay.

"We hope to hold the very good people we've got, and get more of them," he said.

Gouzenko

Russia 'Fills' Embassy With Spies

TORONTO (CP)—Igor Gouzenko, the Russian cipher clerk who pulled the plug on a Soviet spy ring in Canada in 1951, made one of his rare public appearances Sunday night, claiming that the Soviet Union fills its embassy in Ottawa with espionage agents.

Gouzenko, with his head covered in a white hood, was interviewed on the CBC television program this Hour Has Seven Days. His last public appearance was about 18 months ago when he was seen similarly hooded on CBC's Front Page Challenge.

A CBC spokesman said Sunday's interview was taped immediately before broadcast. Gouzenko has been living inconspicuously under the eyes of the RCMP in a small Ontario town since the spy trials which followed his disclosures.

He said he had agreed to appear on television to "bring a message to the Canadian people."

He said the Soviet Union sends nobody to Canada unless "he is a Soviet agent." These agents collect any information which might be useful in influencing people, he said.

Sex is definitely part of spying, he said, and gave as an example a message that once passed through his hands instructing an agent to "court a girl and marry her, if necessary."

Gouzenko said the agent was already married, with children, but he did not elaborate on the incident.

Douglas Leiterman, the show's executive producer, said later through a CBC spokesman it is his understanding that Gouzenko's "message" was that the Soviet embassy in Ottawa is collecting information which might prove useful in bringing pressure to bear on people.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

West scented the danger on this deal, but got concerned just the same. Cover the E-W cards and play the hand from South's angle. Look for the same cute play-declarer found-and also form an opinion as to which defender was to blame.

Having located a 4-4 fit with the Stayman convention, North jumped into the slam. According to point-count, this ought to have been better, but unfortunately the NS and E-W pairs had identical duplicate cards and no ruffing tricks could be had in either hand. So, after West's lead of the heart king had been won by dummy's ace and East had dropped the five spot, declarer had to look for some kind of "steal" to make the Car buyers of Victoria!

We planned our Chev-Olds

Car buyers' field days

just for you!

We invite you — no matter what make of car you are presently driving — to come in and look over our fine new Chevrolets, Oldsmobiles or Epics. Our selection at this time can truly be called outstanding, delivery is all you could wish for — AND, BE SURE OF THIS — we are determined to give you the deal of your life during our Car Buyers' Field Days!

CHEVROLET • CHEVELLE • CHEVY II
CORVAIR • CORVETTE • OLDSMOBILE • OLDS F-85
EPIC • OK USED CARS

Our choice of models and options is at its greatest right now...

You're likely looking for a car that's particularly "you". A car that's suited to your driving needs, that's designed to fit your personality to a "T". Well, with our wide selection of models in stock — cars in every size and price class, models in all colors, with a wide range of attractive options — you'll find that we can probably match you up with the car you want, right in our showroom.

We firmly believe that you will not better our trade-in allowance...

Chevrolet-Oldsmobile dealers have always been noted for high trade-in allowances. But, during Car Buyers' Field Days, you get an even better deal on the 1966 model you choose.

We can give you on-the-spot delivery on virtually any model...

We've probably got the exact model you'd like. If we have — and we have our widest selection of models ever in stock right now — we'll likely be able to deliver that new car to you within hours. That's the kind of service you can expect throughout our Car Buyers' Field Days.

We have OK Used Cars — the cream of the crop — and want you to know it...

Because our new car business has been so good, we have the widest and best choice of the trade-ins. The OK Used Car sign is your best guarantee of dependability and quality. That means used cars that have that new-car look — with plenty of zip to match their good appearance. If you're in the market, for a good used car see us now — during our Car Buyers' Field Days.

City Youth Jailed For One-Year Term

A 16-year-old youth was sentenced to one year in jail in central magistrate's court Monday for the theft of four cars and possession of housebreaking tools.

Ronald McWilliams, 456 Niagara, pleaded guilty to the car theft and had been found guilty last week on the possession charge.

He had been raised to magistrate's court from juvenile court on both charges.

Magistrate William Ostler said the term would be followed by an indefinite period not exceeding one year.

TOOLS IN CLOTHING

At an earlier hearing, court was told how police officers found a pinch bar in the lining of McWilliams' jacket. He also had a 10-inch screwdriver with him.

Juvenile Officer Thomas Smith told the court Monday that McWilliams stole a 1960 Chevrolet from Morrison Motors, 3050 Douglas, Feb. 4.

The car, valued at $1,700, was found in bushes in Langford the next day. Damage amounting to $230 was done, Mr. Smith said.

IN VACANT LOT

Overnight Feb. 9, McWilliams took a 1951 Buick worth $300 from Jameson Motors, 740 Broughton, court was told. The car was recovered undamaged in a vacant lot on Johnson.

McWilliams drove around Langford and Sooke in a 1966 Chrysler he stole from Ensign Motors, 1061 Yates, Feb. 25, Mr. Smith said. The $5,042 car was recovered March 3.

FOUND IN PARK

McWilliams took a $2,700 1965 Ford from the lot at Peter Pollen Ford Ltd., 1060 Yates, March 2, court was told. It was recovered in Goldstream Park.

A motorist hit speeds up to 90 miles an hour Saturday in an area where children were walking, court was told.

Joseph G. V. Miller, 3370 Anchorage, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $400. He was barred from driving for a year.

Miller drove for a mile around Belmont Avenue and Lagoon Road with an RCMP car in pursuit, court was told.

Magistrate Ostler said before sentencing Miller: "Repeated pleas for sanity on the roads in this area are falling on deaf ears."

Goods worth $75.29 were stolen by Anthony Francis Scott, 528 Constance, in a shoplifting spree Saturday.

Scott pleaded guilty to one Saanich charge and six RCMP Colwood counts. He was remanded to March 21 for a pre-sentence report.

Byron Eldon Logan, 489 Lampson, was charged jointly with Scott on the Colwood charges. He was remanded to Monday for plea.

Det. Norman Baker said Scott took two cartons of cigarettes, valued at $7, from the Safeway at 3400 Tillicum Saturday.

GOODS RECOVERED

RCMP Sgt. Verne Williams said Scott took nine children's sweaters and some snap fasteners from the Merry Mart, 1913 Sooke, a bolt of print yard goods and a pair of shorts from Glen Lake Store, 2998 Sooke, flashbulbs and a mantle clock from Colwood Pharmacy, 1910 Sooke, two cartons of meat from the Colwood Shop Easy, two packets of meat from IGA Foodliner, 1860 Island Highway, and a baby's blanket from Dooper's Lucky Dollar Store 705 Goldstream.

All the goods were recovered, court was told.

William Bailey, 890 Darwin, was fined $350 for impaired driving Feb. 25. He had pleaded guilty last week.

He was barred from driving for four months except for business purposes.

Eighteen-year-old Alexander Spiller, HMCS Sussexvale, was fined $35 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

He had a bottle of rum in his pocket when stopped by police on Douglas Feb. 25.

Brass Bed to Calais

CALAIS, France (AP) — Six young men and a girl floated into Calais Monday aboard a brass bedstead after a trip from Ramsgate, England, that took almost eight hours.

The bedstead was equipped with empty oil drums for flotation, two small outboard motors as propulsion and a rudimentary guide.

The sea was calm, the weather cold. They left Ramsgate at 8:30 a.m. and arrived in Calais at 4:10 p.m. This was several hours later than expected. The passengers gave no reason for the delay.

All the bed riders were raincoats of a type used by fishermen. They were equipped with life buoys and an escort boat from Ramsgate accompanied them.

After reaching Calais, the students from the Hatfield College of Technology in Herefordshire again boarded the bed and set out on the return trip.

The only girl in the crew, Sue Spearing, 18, said: "We had a marvellous crossing. The sea was so smooth I even dropped off to sleep at one point. The bed was very comfortable."

France or Not Must Continue NATO—Allies

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and its North Atlantic allies have reached full agreement that NATO must be continued, without France if necessary, informed diplomatic sources said Monday.

Imbert Calls On Bosch For Duel

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the men who took part in the Dominican Republic's recent election, has challenged ex-president Juan Bosch to a duel.

The challenge, in a half-page newspaper advertisement, tells Bosch to choose between "dialogue" and "the field of honor."

Bosch said he will have no comment. He is a leading candidate in the June presidential election.

Language Dipute

Riots Spread To New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP) — Rock-throwing mobs clashed with police and burned cars in New Delhi's streets Monday as a violent outburst at language rioting swept parts of the Indian capital.

At nightfall, reinforced police squads firing tear gas imposed a curfew on the old sections of New Delhi and stood between Hindi-speaking Hindus and Punjabi-speaking Sikhs.

MOB OF 5,000

Although there has been rioting in neighboring Punjab state for three days, this was the first eruption of trouble in New Delhi. At times, mobs of 5,000 or more were on the rampage.

Trouble began with the government's decision last week to partition Punjab to give the Sikhs their own language state. The right-wing Hindu group, Jan Sangh, which demands Hindi be enforced as the national language, immediately launched agitation.

SIX KILLED

Violence spread throughout Punjab Monday, with police firing on mobs in several cities. At least six persons were reported killed.

In New Delhi, about 40 persons were injured and more than 200 arrested. The mob burned cars and other vehicles. Hundreds of demonstrators turned on Sikh-owned shops as mounted policemen and tear-gas squads rushed throughout the Chandni Chowk section trying to restore order.

Philip Aims His Views

Leisure Personal Thing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Britain's Prince Philip called for individual freedom in use of leisure time Monday in a university speech and toured a movie studio during a busy visit to Southern California.

Philip was guest of honor at a luncheon at 20th Century-Fox Studio and visited the set of the Jerry Lewis movie, Way Out.

Prince Philip was flanked by 10 glamor girls, including Rosalind Russell and Natalie Wood. Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Charlton Heston and Danny Kaye were among others in attendance.

He was the principal speaker at Charter Day ceremonies at the University of California at Los Angeles before a capacity crowd of 13,000 in Pauley Pavilion.

Discussing leisure time, he said: "I must confess that I am interested in leisure in the same way that a poor man is interested in money. It is quite ridiculous to discuss what is the proper use of leisure. Quite enough human misery is caused by the self-righteous trying to impose their standards on the rest of the community."

"Leisure in fact is what you do with it, according to your personal, ethical, moral and religious beliefs and by the knowledge or lack of knowledge of the possibilities."

The Prince, who was given an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, said most Americans and Brits are in favor of reducing working hours but the individual must find something to do with the free time and must have adequate facilities for recreation and other pursuits.

Philip visited the New Hope for Hearing research centre on the UCLA campus. He took a 15-month-old boy, known as Happy Sam, in his arms and spoke soothingly to him. The boy is being taught to lip-read.

Suharto Seeks Small Cabinet For Indonesia

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Indonesia's new military President Sukarno was bargaining Tuesday with President Suharto over the makeup of a new cabinet expected to be announced by the end of the week, sources in Jakarta said.

The sources, who could not be identified, said Suharto was pressing Sukarno to name a 24-man cabinet that could take over effective administration of the nation. Sukarno in the past has been in the habit of naming unwieldy 100-man cabinets that were incapable of proper administration.

Radio Jakarta said Sukarno met at Borobudur Palace Monday with a number of cabinet ministers and chiefs of the armed forces, but it added that Suharto did not attend "due an imposition."

The sources said it was still not clear whether former defense minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, who was deposed by Sukarno Feb. 21 in a cabinet reshuffle that led to riots, would be included.

At least 48 persons, about half of them leaving ministers in the cabinet Sukarno announced in the reshuffle, have been arrested, sources here said.

Canadian Aid At $3,692,132

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has allocated $3,692,132 in assistance to Viet Nam since 1953—$1,694,532 of it within the last two years, External Affairs Minister Martin announced Monday.

OTTAWA (CP)—George Hees said Monday Gerda Munsinger "may well be right" when she talks of having two luncheon dates with him when he was a cabinet minister, but he denied emphatically there ever was a question of security involved.

The tall, handsome former Conservative trade minister read a statement to the Commons a few hours after a Toronto Star story from Munich quoted Gerda Munsinger as saying Mr. Hees twice took her to lunch—and that was all.

He rose on a question of privilege and read his 225-word statement to a hushed chamber.

Agents Haggle Over Contracts

Gerda's Story Is Unfolding In Munich's 'Market Place'

MUNICH, West Germany (CP) — The Gerda Munsinger story continued to be acted out in the market-place Monday. The 36-year-old blonde remained in hiding while her agents haggled over contracts with a variety of interests anxious to publish details of her alleged friendship with Canadian cabinet ministers.

André von Ferenczy, dapper young son of the man who has Gerda in his financial pocket, would say only Mrs. Munsinger is "somewhere in Bavaria, with friends."

His father, Joseph, a Hungarian-born literary agent, distributed copies of an enigmatic statement in German, signed by Mrs. Munsinger.

"I hereby declare that I, Gerda Munsinger, was born 10-9-29 (Sept. 10, 1929) at Koenigsberg, East Prussia, and have not, as the press reported, died of leukemia," the statement said.

"SAME PERSON"

"I was from 1955 to 1961 in Canada and I am the same person who has been mentioned in reports concerning the Canadian government."

The signature looked shaky and was barely legible.

All day long at the Ferenczy home, Ferenczy and his two sons dealt with a procession of Canadian and other visitors seeking to buy newspaper or television rights to her story.

FACES COMPETITION

The CBC, which had hoped to get television rights, reported it is faced with competition and is awaiting developments from its continuing negotiations.

No Change In Probe Terms

PEARSON KILLS TORY DEMANDS

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson rejected opposition demands for changes in the terms of reference of a judicial inquiry into the Gerda Munsinger case.

He appealed to the Commons to get back to normal business today after a fractious three-day debate on the case but it was not immediately clear whether this will happen.

Conservative House Leader Michael Starr shouted above a din of interjections and catcalls that Mr. Pearson has lost the confidence of Parliament and any "suggestion he has no merit whatever."

Mr. Starr accused the government of arrogance and of trying to impose its will on Parliament.

Mr. Pearson, speaking briefly just before the debate was adjourned at 10 p.m. EST, appealed to the opposition to accept the present terms of reference for the inquiry.

The terms were comprehensive and reasonable and were designed not to be provocative or offensive. No one was on trial. It was a broad inquiry into the roots of a case and he hoped the commissioner would be allowed to complete his inquiry as quickly as possible.

The prime minister suggested the Commons open a supply debate and abandon a series of questions of privilege that has obliterated almost all regular proceedings since last Thursday.

Davie Fulton, former Conservative justice minister, asked whether the government would accept his suggestions for changes in the terms of reference.

"No, no," Liberal MPs shouted.

Original Terms 'Good'

Mr. Pearson said the original terms are good and should be carried out.

Mr. Fulton earlier called for an all-party house committee to revise the terms of reference.

He said the terms passed by the cabinet Monday morning and tabled in the Commons before an unusual dinner adjournment are far too vague and do not refer directly to charges and innuendoes made last week by Justice Minister Cardin.

The Commons was back at the Munsinger matter after a 90-minute adjournment called to allow MPs to study the terms of reference of a special judicial inquiry into the affair announced earlier Monday by Prime Minister Pearson. Mr. Justice Wishart F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada is to head it.

There were hardly any interruptions during the speeches of Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker, former Conservative trade minister George Hees, former Conservative justice minister Davie Fulton, Privy Council President Favreau and Mr. Cardin.

MPs who tried to interrupt were hushed into silence by their party colleagues. All the galleries were jammed and hundreds waiting outside never got a seat. The crowd was among the largest in parliamentary history.

Some Liberals joined in the Conservatives' applause when Mr. Hees said he recognizes newspaper photographs of Gerda Munsinger as a person he once knew but he still does not recall knowing her by that name.

Degraded, Demeaned

The prime minister said Parliament had reached a "frightening situation" and that the atmosphere and attitudes which degraded it and demeaned democracy must be changed.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals had kept the Munsinger case "in cold storage in their hearts" to use against the Conservatives.

But at the end he said harsh words are part of Parliament and that "this Parliament is dead unless we resuscitate it."

"This institution must not fail. Without it, there is no freedom. Many issues faced Canada."

"Mr. Speaker, let's go to work," Mr. Diefenbaker concluded.

In contrast to the chaotic scenes of Thursday and Friday, there were hardly any interruptions during the speeches of Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker, former Conservative trade minister George Hees, former Conservative justice minister Davie Fulton, Privy Council President Favreau and Mr. Cardin.

MPs who tried to interrupt were hushed into silence by their party colleagues. All the galleries were jammed and hundreds waiting outside never got a seat. The crowd was among the largest in parliamentary history.

'Quiet' Judge Serves

OTTAWA (CP)—After serving quietly on the bench for 15 years, Mr. Justice Wishart F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada was swept Monday into the eye of political hurricane Gerda.

The 62-year-old junior member of the highest court was asked by the government Monday morning to conduct a judicial inquiry into the sensational Gerda Munsinger affair and his appointment was announced by Prime Minister Pearson when the Commons met at 2:30 p.m. EST.

FINAL APPEALS

Mr. Justice Spence was hearing the final appeals of the Supreme Court's winter term when the surprise assignment came. He told a reporter later he had not even had time to think about the procedure he will follow and not seen the terms of reference of the inquiry.

The terms give him "absolute discretion" to decide the time

No Risk to Security

Mr. Hees said that at no time had his personal conduct jeopardized security and added: "I defy the prime minister and the minister of justice to say that I ever did anything to jeopardize or affect the security of my country."

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton said no security risk occurred or was even alleged in the Munsinger affair.

Mr. Fulton said he was called to Mr. Favreau's office eight days before Mr. Cardin's mention of the name Munsinger in the Commons and told that the affair would be disclosed by the government if the Conservatives persisted in calling for a judicial inquiry into the Spencer spy case.

Conservative shouts of "shame, shame" greeted the statement.

Mr. Pearson on March 4 established a judicial inquiry into the case of George Victor Spencer, thus reversing the stand taken by Mr. Cardin. He has also announced a royal commission into security procedures, meeting another demand of the Conservatives.

He said he hadn't even in

'Price Index Boys Don't Shop on Island'

PORT ALBERNI — How'd you like to buy hamburger for 27 cents a pound? Or a juicy prime rib roast at 59 cents? Or what about sweet smoke bacon at the same price?

Think these are ads from the good old days?

They're from food ads in the Alberni Valley in March 1964 and 1965.

Of all the frustrating forms of government gobbledegook, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics' consumer price index probably bugs the average home-maker the most.

February, the price index rose to a record high of 143.1. The rise from February 1963 was an unprecedented 4.9 points from 137.1.

"But I don't understand it," said one young mother of four. "By my figuring, that's a rise of about 3.6 per cent. How come my food budget is up about 25 per cent."

In the Alberni Valley where IWA workers, who dominate the work force, civic employees, and several other groups either are seeking or have just sought wage increases, it seemed an appropriate time to try and translate price index changes into costs budget-weary wives can readily understand.

Every woman's housekeeping budget is her very personal business. Few husbands ever quite comprehend just how wives work it, but it's a highly personal affair.

One woman's budget is another, gal's bankruptcy.

But most homemakers agree that being a thrifty food shopper and a good cook is the greatest help in budget-balancing.

"I can't change the mortgage payments, the fuel bills, or even electricity, taxes or water bills by very much," said one.

Mary Taylor Shops on Paper

"But we live better for less than our next-door neighbours because I like to cook. Lots of less expensive cuts are more tasty and nourishing than expensive ones." She is the young wife of a plywood worker, with three hungry youngsters.

"But today, even cheap cuts are costly. Everytime I shop I pay more and seem to take home less."

Does Mrs. Alberni Valley pay more for less these days, and if so, for what and by how much?

Fortified with copies of food advertisements that appeared locally in March last year, and in March 1964, shopping trips during the past week turned up some interesting answers, 1965 prices quoted were offered during the past week at major food outlets in Alberni and Port Alberni. Grab your shopping basket and come along.

Most kids love weiners... here's a nationally-known skinless brand. You could buy them for 39 cents a pound in most Valley stores in 1964, and even in March 1965. Today they are specials at 48 cents a pound, and sell regularly at 52 to 55 cents a pound.

A well-known brand of thirty skinless sausages sold at 3 pounds for 88 cents in 1964 and 1965. This weekend the same brand is 2 lbs. for 79 cents as a special in the food floor of a local department store. As for top grade, pure pork sausages, you'll be lucky to buy a single pound for 79 cents.

Outdoor workers are traditionally hungry. Many valley husbands can now eat at a meal, a steak or chops that cost more than enough to have fed a wife and a couple of youngsters as well, 24 months ago.

Traditional bacon and egg breakfasts are getting scarcer. Eggs appear to have risen only enough to take care of winter shortages and rising feed costs. Yet side bacon, offered at 59 cents a pound in 1964, and 69 a pound in 1965, today specials at 99 cents, and is 1.15 to 1.25 a pound regular price in March 1965.

Back bacon is probably the most costly form of smoked meat, ranging from $1.50 to $1.60 a pound.

Prime rib roasts, readily available at 59 cents in 1964, and often 65 a pound in March 1965, now sell from 85 to 95 cents a pound, with boneless cuts of beef almost always well over a dollar a pound.

"Thank heaven for hamburger," sighed one young newlywed, admitting she found food shopping the most difficult part of her new status as a wife. But even that budget standby has gone up by almost 50 per cent in most stores today.

Meat is a heavy item in food budgets in this area, where working men and families far out-eat the requirements of many less active people in more sheltered employment.

"So we'll just have to cut down on the meat," decides mother. "We will substitute other foods." Economics experts are always assuring us that meat can be done quite easily. Can it?

Let's substitute rolled oats for breakfast. Five pounds of nationally advertised rolled oats sold for 49 cents here in 1964.

This weekend, the same regular style oats, same brand, specialised at 69 cents for five pounds with a "regular price" of 75 cents. So what's 20 cents difference? It's almost 40 per cent more, that's what it is.

Rice is a good way to stretch meat. Here's a long-grain, well-known brand, just 39 cents a package in 1965. Now, one year later, the same 2-pound package costs 49 cents regularly, and specials at 45 cents. Only a tiny cent rise, but a 25 per cent increase in regular cost.

Maybe fried oysters, high in food value, could replace meat? A half pint in 1964 cost 39 cents. In a local supermarket, today, the same brand sells for 55 cents.

Again, it's only a 16-cent rise, but it's a 41 per cent increase.

Milk, bread, butter, all have crept up, a cent or two at a time, month by month.

But a two cent rise on a 20 cent product means a full 10 per cent rise in costs. If it extends to your whole food budget, the only relief for the budget-conscious food shopper seemed to be the periodic drop in fresh produce during the local season, and the settling down of sugar prices.

Other household necessities keep creeping up too.

"I wonder how much toilet paper they can make out of a ton of pulp?" wondered one logger's wife, surveying a mountain of multi-colored rolls, marked 4 for 59 cents.

Last year, in the same store, she could have bought 12 rolls for a dollar on special, or 8 rolls for 79 cents almost anywhere.

Other paper products have spiralled, and this is a paper-conscious town, as well it might be.

Paper towels have gone up 4 to 5 cents from the 49 cent a pack paid only recently. Even four cents represents an 8 per cent rise in cost.

"Worst of all," mourned another shopper, as the price checking went on, "they now want me to pay more for paper towels with a decorative edge. All I use them for is to wipe up spills, grease and messes. Why should I pay more for patterned garbage? That's where all used paper towels end up."

It even costs more to keep clean. King-size soap packages are popular buys here. In 1964, one brand, advertising 30 cents off, sold for 1.19. Today the same king-size package, still bearing its boast of 30 cents off, costs 1.49. Thirty cents on 1.19 is a 25 per cent increase.

Well, it was a great shopping trip or two.

But one thing none of us could figure out; maybe the bureau of statistics can enlighten us. With no apparent decrease in costs of clothing, services or housing, have been on Vancouver Island.

From studying food advertisements in many regional centres, and from shopping locally, it certainly does not appear to have been on Vancouver Island.

Other household necessities keep creeping up too.

Fulford Scouts' Fire Starts Centennial Year

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD — The British Columbia Centennial was off to a bright start with signal fires Friday night.

At Beaver Point, First Fulford Sea Scouts, under the supervision of Scoutmaster Jimmy Stewart, lit their huge fire having previously stacked up enough wood to keep the fire burning all night.

BEAVER POINT

The signal fire was burning brightly on the tip of Beaver Point while below the rocks could be heard the breaking of the waves caused by the ferry boats passing to and from Swartz Bay to Tassanawan.

The brilliantly-lit ferries added color to the scene and a high northwest wind sent sparks into the air from the fire, spraying everything and everyone with excitement as the wind veered.

TOPPLED TENT

Just before dark, the Scouts had pitched their tent with some difficulty in the wind, but with final achievement. That the big tent collapsed once before being secured only added to the fun of camping out.

The most popular place from start to finish, was the long picnic table supervised by Peggy Stewart, who had coffee ready and stacks of weiners, buns, sandwiches and cookies laid out.

FOOD EATEN

These vanished in the usual way where there are 15 Scouts and their friends with undetermined storage capacity.

Crowds of friends and parents visited the camp and helped to celebrate. A few fireworks and singing around the fire brought the evening to a close for the visitors.

One Day It Cleared . . .

'Neighbors' Reading Wins Trophy

DUNCAN—His rendition of Helen Wing's poem Neighbors, earned Kevin Stark of Ladysmith 84½ points and a Cowichan Music Festival trophy.

He was one of 13 boys in the boys under 12 years of age competition when this year's festival's speech arts classes opened Monday at Mount Prevost School.

The 1966 Cowichan Music Festival opened with dancing Friday, and will close Saturday with a final concert.

Other results from Monday's speech arts competition: Neighbors — Robert Swarder, Shawnigan Lake, 84, Centennial Medallion; the for Cowichan Music Festival certificate, Kim Barton and Randy Pelletier, each 81.

The Yak by Hilair Belloc — boys under 11: David Dougan, Cobble Hill, 81, Santa Maria Trophy; Patrick Cannon, 82 and Clifford Overton, 81.

The Skylark by Christina Rosewell — Theresa Galloway, Ladysmith, 84, Duncan Elementary PTA Trophy; Cheryl Hogg, 81, and Karen Dymna, 80.

An honor performance of instrumental music and dancing delighted a large audience at Quamichan Junior High School Saturday, completing the first part of the Cowichan music festival.

Cowichan high school band and Shawnigan Lake RSCCC Cougar drum and bugle band were followed by rhythm bands from junior grades, all prizewinners.

Accordions, clarinet, trumpet and saxophone solos attested to the wide range of musical instruction available in Cowichan.

Winners in the dancing section: Rewick Trophy — Madreen Hogan, Stannard Trophy for most talented brass instrument player — T. Rendall, trumpet.

Mary Quilley Memorial Bursary, to a promising entrant in dancing classes — Debrah Carlson.

Debbie Carlson also won the Cowichan Music Festival trophy for highest mark in solo dancing. She got 88 and the Patters and Getz Cup for under 15 tap dance.

Folk dancing, primary grades — Alexander School 82; Cobble Hill 81; Intermediate — Cobble Hill, 84, and trophy; Honeymoon Bay 80; Rural Schools — Cobble Hill 84; Junior High — Mount Prevost, 81; Cowichan senior high 86; trophy.

Group Dancing — Intermediate — Duncan Elementary 84. Grades six and seven — Alexander Elementary, 85. Junior High, Mount Prevost 83.

DUNCAN — Homeowners in the east end of Duncan have asked council to do something about drainage.

They say when it rains the water off Campbell Street pours into their gardens.

Finn Leerholm, representing 50 householders, got a sympathetic hearing, and assurance from acting mayor J. H. Saunders that the city engineer will look at the situation.

Mr. Leerholm said "there are potholes five inches deep in Campbell Street."

NO REASONING

Council has not approved reasoning of property on Trunk Road for commercial use. A letter from residents in the area opposed the request.

FALLOUT

Duncan is included in a federal government industry survey of buildings suitable for fallout shelters.

An on-site survey will be made this year.

OIL BID

Standard Oil Company was successful bidder for supplying city hall and the fire hall with fuel oil, at 15.18 cents a gallon. Council will enforce the dog-leash law passed in December.

If dogs are running loose in the city, owners will get tickets and fines similar to parking violation penalties.

ATOMIC BLAST

Mr. Weneley suggested that the Myra Creek mine could be connected by a 16-mile road to the head of Comox Lake near Courtenay, if a controlled atomic explosion were used to shear off the top of a 4,000-foot rock barrier.

Western Mines intends to spend about $1,000,000 on construction of bulk loading facilities at Campbell River, some 60 miles from the mine.

Trade and Commerce Minister Ralph Loffmark said the committee should not be too quick to dismiss the atomic energy idea.

Speaking to a public forum Monday night he said "If it is defeated council cannot sit around and consider it again. We have other, more important things to attend to."

An Alberni Valley petition bearing more than 6,000 signatures, and a brief decrying lack of government action to control air pollution, have finally been presented to the government.

And the delegation from the Albernis was dismayed at the reception given the brief by the three cabinet ministers.

"They put up a thicker smokescreen than we get in the Alberni Valley," said Andy Bigg.

Their comments on the delegation's request for legislation led Mr. Bigg to comment: "They'll do nothing!"

No longer are residents of the Alberni Valley "prepared to accept the excuses which for so long have been trotted out with monotonous repetition that 'Everything is being done locally to correct the problem of pollution by the industrial organizations concerned.'"

It gave examples of complaints raised by private citizens, and in the city's council chambers dating back over several years.

The brief was signed on behalf of the committee by its president, Colin S. Wilson, and its secretary, Mrs. Joyce Gislason.

In it, members brought to the attention of Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell, Trade and Commerce Minister Loffmark, and Resources Minister Ray Williston the results of studies made in several similarly afflicted areas of the United States.

In Anderson, Calif., Ninah, Wis., and in Mexico, laws requiring pulp firms to dispose of waste according to latest scientific methods had been successfully brought to bear.

Cost in each case cited ran anywhere from $1,000,000 to a little over $2,000,000, the brief pointed out.

But it emphasized that, once the money had been expended, the various problems involving air and water pollution were almost totally solved.

In British Columbia, no such laws exist, the brief claims.

Concluding its lengthy argument, the committee brief said it hoped there would be no further delay in establishing a provincial pollution control authority during the current session of the legislature.

Parking Free

Hospital Dispute Flares

NANAIMO — Next month paid parking in the Gordon Street parking lot will be discontinued.

In a written recommendation submitted at city council Monday night it was stated "pay parking is acting as a deterrent to the full utilization of this facility."

CONTRACT END

The recommendation was brought down by the whole council.

The present contract between Imperial Parking Ltd., operators of the parking lot, and the city will end April 30.

The Gordon Street parking lot adjoins a $5,000,000 shopping centre, which will provide parking for 800 cars.

WRONG BLANT

Also at the meeting: Formation of a public relations committee was called for at Monday night's council meeting.

Ald. Bus MacDonald made the appeal because he said the public is not getting the right information.

ALMOST FALSE

The alderman's statement was prompted by a letter from Walter Tickson, calling for the city to take over the old Nanaimo hospital.

Ald. Ted Baraby maintained the letter was "full of practically falsehoods."

Mr. Tickson called the proposed sale "undemocratic, unsound, unjust and possibly illegal."

When council learned the Diamond area would not contribute financially, Ald. John Cochrane remarked people in the ungaraged areas are trained to refuse to join a regional district.

"They say they get certain services anyhow. I don't say people in the Diamond area feel that way, but usually this is the feeling."

Also at the meeting, Ald. Cochrane reported settlement of a new two-year contract which will give outside workers increases of 18 cents an hour during 1966, and 18 cents in 1967.

Mayor Kay Grouhel said "we were considered low on the scale. We want our employees to take pride in their work."

He maintained the hospital board "did not call, through proper public notice, for public tenders."

"The administrator privately contacted demolition firms without calling for public tenders."

NO DEAL YET

An offer to sell Nanaimo airport at Cassidy has been turned down for the time being by the city.

Council decided to give the offer further consideration when a regional district is formed in the area around Nanaimo.

The present owners, the Department of Transport will be asked to keep the offer open.

The department's offer was $100 an acre for 158.9 acres.

School Vote Defeated

TOFINO — Voters in this west coast school district gave a resounding No to school board plans to buy an apartment block as a teachers' residence.

The $66,500 referendum needed 50 per cent to pass; the vote was 55 in favor and 45 against.

In Ucluelet voters were 36 in favor, 64 against.

In Tofino the Yes vote totaled 19, the No vote 35.

Board secretary George Hurley said he was disappointed at the outcome.

Ladysmith Sets Centennial Job

LADYSMITH—The local centennial committee will be instructed that the town wants the whole of Transfer Beach, including changing room and toilet facilities, to be considered a centennial project.

Council learned the Diamond area, with 150 people, would like to come in on the centennial project.

When council learned the Diamond area would not contribute financially, Ald. John Cochrane remarked people in the ungaraged areas are trained to refuse to join a regional district.

Allen Again IWA Head

PORT ALBERNI—The three top executive positions in the IWA here were filled by acclamation at a weekend meeting, following the opening of the new $100,000 IWA building at Fourth and Montrose.

Walker Allen is president; secretaries, Maurice Corbell and John Squire.

Nominated for first vice-president were Russel Foxcroft and Stan Parker; for second vice-president, Bill Hawkes and George McKnight.

President Walter Allen was also named regional executive board member for another year. International president Al Hartung of Portland, admiring the handsome new building with its executive offices, conference room and large lower-floor meeting hall, commented "this shows the progress made by organized labor in this area since the union started here 25 years ago. It shows the dedication of the workers to their union, and to the city."

Union Bay Dock Will Be Demolished

Mine Relics Come Down

Familiar dock will disappear

By MARY MOORE

UNION BAY—A symbol of Vancouver Island's coal mining past is disappearing:

Canadian Collieries is erasing some of the remaining marks of its once-booming industry.

The company has begun demolition of its terminal, structures and buildings at Union Bay.

The plant has been deserted since Canadian Collieries operation ended in 1961.

"There is no indication of further developments," said W. W. Johnston, local agent for the company.

"The company is having the structures removed to clean up the area," he said.

The company has a contract with M. D. Cole, Courtenay, to dismantle and remove the dock, trestle, and all buildings except the office and substation.

Six Men, One Girl Sail Across Channel

Brass Bed to Calais

CALAIS, France (AP) — Six young men and a girl floated into Calais Monday aboard a brass bedstead after a trip from Ramsgate, England, that took almost eight hours.

The bedstead was equipped with empty oil drums for flotation, two small outboard motors as propulsion and a rudder for guidance.

The sea was calm, the weather cold. They left Ramsgate at 8:30 a.m. and arrived in Calais at 4:30 p.m. This was several hours later than expected. The passengers gave no reason for the delay.

All the bed riders wore raincoats of a type used by fishermen. They were equipped with life buoys and an escort boat from Ramsgate accompanied them.

After reaching Calais, the students from the Hatfield College of Technology in Hertfordshire again boarded the bed and set out on the return trip.

The only girl in the crew, Sue Sparring, 19, said: "We had a marvelous crossing. The sea was so smooth I even dropped off to sleep at one point. The bed was very comfortable."

France or Not Must Continue NATO—Allies

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and its North Atlantic allies have reached full agreement that NATO must be continued, without France if necessary, informed diplomatic sources said Monday.

Imbert Calls On Bosch For Duel

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the men who took part in the machine-gun assassination of Dominican Republic dictator Rafael Trujillo, has challenged ex-president Juan Bosch to a duel.

The challenge, in a half-page newspaper advertisement, tells Bosch to choose between "dialogue" and "the field of honor."

Bosch said he will have no comment. He is a leading candidate in the June presidential election.

The French delegation was absent as the permanent representatives of the 14 other North Atlantic Treaty Organization members met for three hours to confirm their united stand in the face of French President Charles de Gaulle's efforts to tear down the alliance.

De Gaulle, in ordering the expulsion of American and Canadian troops and bases and NATO military headquarters from France and the withdrawal of all French forces from NATO command, has triggered the gravest internal crisis ever to confront the alliance.

Diplomatic sources said "the 14" confirmed their earlier agreement that the de Gaulle crisis is a matter for joint consultation and not for bilateral talks between individual members and the French.

Suharto Seeks Small Cabinet For Indonesia

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Indonesia's new military President Sukarno was bargaining Tuesday with President Sukarno over the makeup of a new cabinet expected to be announced by the end of the week, sources in Jakarta said.

The reports of the pending cabinet announcement followed disclosure Monday that the army acted quickly to seize power after uncovering a plot by Foreign Minister Subandrio and Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to eliminate "rightist elements" among military and government leaders.

Radio Jakarta said Sukarno met at Borobudur Palace Monday with a number of cabinet ministers and chiefs of the armed forces, but it added that Sukarno did not attend "due an imposition."

The sources said it was still not clear whether former defense minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, who was deposed by Sukarno Feb. 21 in a cabinet reshuffle that led to riots, would be included.

SPEAKER KEY TO PARALYSIS

Pearson Kills Tory Demands

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson rejected opposition demands for changes in the terms of reference of a judicial inquiry into the Gerda Munsinger case.

He appealed to the Commons to get back to normal business today after a fractious three-day debate on the case but it was not immediately clear whether this will happen.

Conservative House Leader Michael Starr shouted above a din of interjections and catcalls that Mr. Pearson has lost the confidence of Parliament and any "suggestion he has has no merit whatever."

Mr. Starr accused the government of arrogance and of trying to impose its will on Parliament.

Mr. Pearson, speaking briefly just before the debate was adjourned at 10 p.m. EST, appealed to the opposition to accept the present terms of reference for the inquiry.

The terms were comprehensive and reasonable and were designed not to be provocative or offensive. No one was on trial. It was a broad inquiry to the roots of a case and he hoped the commissioner would be allowed to complete his inquiry as quickly as possible.

The prime minister suggested the Commons open a supply debate and abandon a series of questions of privilege that has obliterated almost all regular proceedings since last Thursday.

Dave Fulton, former Conservative justice minister, asked whether the government would accept his suggestions for changes in the terms of reference.

"No, no," Liberal MPs shouted.

Original Terms 'Good'

Mr. Pearson said the original terms are good and should be carried out.

Mr. Fulton earlier called for an all-party house committee to revise the terms of reference.

He said the terms passed by the cabinet Monday morning and tabled in the Commons before an unusual dinner adjournment are far too vague and do not refer directly to charges and innuendoes made last week by Justice Minister Cardin.

The Commons was back at the Munsinger matter after a 90-minute adjournment called to allow MPs to study the terms of reference of a special judicial inquiry into the affair announced earlier Monday by Prime Minister Pearson.

Justice Minister F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada is to head it.

Justice Minister Cardin has charged that Opposition Leader Diefenbaker when prime minister mishandled the case while he has described as a security "risk." He has also accused, without naming them, "two or more" members of the Diefenbaker cabinet with being involved with Gerda Munsinger, 36, a blonde German beauty who lived in Canada from 1955 to 1961.

Mr. Pearson apparently appealed the angry Conservatives, partially at least, by including in the royal commission's terms of reference for examination all the press conference statements by Mr. Cardin.

Degraded, Demeaned

The prime minister said Parliament had reached a "frightening situation" and that the atmosphere and attitudes which degraded it and demeaned democracy must be changed.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals had kept the Munsinger case "in cold storage in their party" to use against the Conservatives.

But at the end he said harsh words are part of Parliament and that "this Parliament is dead unless we resuscitate it."

"Mr. Speaker, let's go to work," Mr. Diefenbaker concluded.

In contrast to the chaotic scenes of Thursday and Friday, there were hardly any interruptions during the speeches of Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker, former Conservative trade minister George Hees, former Conservative justice minister Dave Fulton, Privy Council President Favreau and Mr. Cardin.

MPs who tried to interrupt were hushed into silence by their party colleagues. All the galleries were jammed and hundreds waiting outside never got a seat. The crowd was among the largest in parliamentary history.

Some Liberals joined in the Conservatives' applause when Mr. Hees said he recognizes newspaper photographs of Gerda Munsinger as a person he once knew but he still does not recall knowing her by that name.

No Risk to Security

Mr. Hees said that at no time had his personal conduct jeopardized security and added: "I defy the prime minister and the minister of justice to say that I ever did anything to jeopardize or affect the security of my country."

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton said no security risk occurred or was even alleged in the Munsinger affair.

Mr. Fulton said he was called to Mr. Favreau's office eight days before Mr. Cardin's mention of the name Munsinger in the Commons and told that the affair would be disclosed by the government if the Conservatives persisted in calling for a judicial inquiry into the Spence spy case.

Conservative shouts of "shame, shame" greeted the statement.

Mr. Favreau conceded he had mentioned the Munsinger case to Mr. Fulton but denied he had threatened to reveal details.

Mr. Favreau said his conversation with Mr. Fulton was secret under the oath of cabinet office but that the former minister had "betrayed this trust."

Mr. Fulton maintained the Liberals had followed a deliberate course in disclosing the Munsinger case.

The government long ago decided to teach the Opposition a lesson no matter how disastrous the consequences," he said.

Mr. Cardin said he blurted out the name Munsinger March 4 under provocation—a reference to the opposition attack on him for opposing an inquiry into the Spence case.

He said he hadn't even in

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Parliament is shuddering out of control and its last hope may be an 11th-hour salvage operation by Speaker Lucien Lamoureux.

An "outrageous Gerda" threatens to keep parliament in endless paralysis, Prime Minister Pearson pinned his hope on the speaker.

"He will have to decide," Mr. Pearson said last night.

At the same time, he quietly rebuked the speaker for allowing a debate that has brought parliament to the brink of destruction and returned a sour pre-election mood to the capital.

The speaker, he said, had allowed an out-of-order debate for two-and-a-half days.

If the speaker moved to end the debate, a new crisis could develop.

But there is now total deadlock, for the fourth day, and no one can see the way out.

'Quiet' Judge Serves

OTTAWA (CP) — After serving quietly on the bench for 15 years, Mr. Justice Wilfrid Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada was swept Monday into the eye of political hurricane Gerda.

The 62-year-old junior member of the highest court was asked by the government Monday morning to conduct a judicial inquiry into the sensational Gerda Munsinger affair and his appointment was announced by Prime Minister Pearson when the Commons met at 2:30 p.m. EST.

The terms give him "absolute discretion" to decide the time

Language Dispute

Riots Spread To New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP) — Rock-throwing mobs clashed with police and burned cars in New Delhi's streets Monday as a violent outburst of language rioting swept parts of the Indian capital.

At nightfall, reinforced police

MOBS OF 4,000

Although there has been rioting in neighboring Punjab state for three days, this was the first eruption of trouble in New Delhi. At times, mobs of 5,000 or more were on the rampage. Trouble began with the government's decision last week to partition Punjab to give the Sikhs their own language state. The right-wing Hindu group, Jan Sangh, which demands Hindi be enforced as the national language, immediately launched agitation.

SIX KILLED

Violence spread throughout Punjab Monday, with police firing on mobs in several cities. At least six persons were reported killed.

In New Delhi, about 40 persons were injured and more than 200 arrested. The mob burned cars and other vehicles. Hundreds of demonstrators turned on Sikh-owned shops as mounted policemen and tear-gas squads rushed throughout the Chandni Chowk section trying to restore order.

Did Hees, Gerda Lunch?

'She May Be Right'

OTTAWA (CP) — George Hees read a statement to the Commons a few hours after a Toronto Star story from Munich quoted Gerda Munsinger as saying she had twice taken her to lunch—and that was all.

He rose on a question of privilege and read his 22-word statement to a hushed chamber.

Agents Haggle Over Contracts

Gerda's Story Is Unfolding In Munich's 'Market Place'

MUNICH, West Germany (CP) — The Gerda Munsinger story continued to be acted out in the market-place Monday. The 36-year-old blonde remained in hiding while her agents haggled over contracts with a variety of interests anxious to publish details of her alleged friendship with Canadian cabinet ministers.

Andre von Ferenczy, dapper young son of the man who has Gerda in his financial pocket, would say only Mrs. Munsinger is "somewhere in Bavaria, with friends."

His father, Joseph, a Hungarian-born literary agent, distributed copies of an enigmatic statement in German, signed by Mrs. Munsinger.

"I hereby declare that I, Gerda Munsinger, was born 10-9-29 (Sept. 10, 1929) at Koenigsberg, East Prussia, and have not, as the press reported, died of leukemia," the statement said.

"SAME PERSON"

"I was from 1955 to 1961 in Canada and I am the same person who has been mentioned in reports concerning the Canadian government."

The signature looked shaky and was barely legible.

All day long at the Ferenczy home, Ferenczy and his two sons dealt with a procession of Canadian and other visitors seeking to buy newspaper or television rights to her story.

FACES COMPETITION

The CBC, which had hoped to get television rights, reported it is faced with competition and is awaiting developments from its continuing negotiations.

Munich's press continued to give a mixed picture of the affair. Newspapers such as the sober Suddeutsche Zeitung carried chatty pieces, mainly about all the Canadian reporters in town. A few splashed year-old glamour shots of Gerda, a former beauty queen, across their pages and tried, generally without much success, to indicate that they have the full story of her past.

Philip Airls His Views

Leisure Personal Thing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Britain's Prince Philip called for individual freedom in use of leisure time Monday in a university speech and toured a movie studio during a busy visit to Southern California. Philip was guest of honor at a luncheon at 20th Century-Fox Studio and visited the set of the Jerry Lewis movie, Way Out.

Prince Philip was flanked by 10 glamor girls, including Rosalind Russell and Natalie

Wood. Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Charlton Heston and Danny Kaye were among others in attendance.

He was the principal speaker at Charter Day ceremonies at the University of California at Los Angeles before a capacity crowd of 13,000 in Pauley Pavilion.

Discussing leisure time, he said: "I must confess that I am interested in leisure in the same way that a poor man is interested in money. It is quite ridiculous to discuss what is the proper use of leisure. Quite enough human misery is caused by the self-righteous trying to impose their standards on the rest of the community."

"Leisure in fact is what you do with it, according to your personal, ethical, moral and religious beliefs and by the knowledge or lack of knowledge of the possibilities."

The Prince, who was given an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, said most Americans and Britishers are in favor of reducing working hours but the individual must find something to do with the free time and must have adequate facilities for recreation and other pursuits.
